From Press Dispatches

With a flurry of news that was mostly good, the Agriculture Department Wednesday forecast a total national crop production equal to 1948's record.

Nationally, the federal experts said, total farm production this year will be the largest of record if livestock production is counted.

Two Die As Truck And Auto Crash

Lincoln Star Special

HARBINE, Neb. — Two persons were killed on Highway 3 east of here late Wednesday night when the victims' car crashed head-on into a semi-trailer truck loaded with market-bound hogs.

The truck driver was injured. The dead were Louis Wayne Valentine, 25, of Fairbury and Donna Lacy, about 22, of Fairbury.

Injured was Robert Albert of Clayton, Neb. He was taken to a Fairbury hospital, where he was admitted for severe cuts and bruises and possibly other injuries.

Hughes said the accident occurred on a flat stretch of open pavement and there was no apparent explanation why the vehicles collided. Both the car, which Valentine was driving, and the truck were badly damaged.

The semi-trailer stock truck, owned by Frank Anderson of Rt. 8, Lincoln, went into a ditch after the impact. It was loaded with squealing hogs.

2-Truck Collision Kills Cozad Man

Nebraska's highway dead climbed to 168 early Wednesday evening when a Lexington man was killed in a two-truck collision seven miles east of Cozad.

Dead is Donald W. German, 24, driver of a pick-up truck which collided with a truck driven by Wesley McKelvey, 48, of Cozad.

The two trucks collided at the intersection of a country road, the Safety Patrol said.

Farmer Dies After Horse Hit By Car

LYNCH, Neb. — Roylin Beschult, 47, farmer southwest of here, was hunting strayed cattle on his horse Wednesday when hit by a car and killed. Officers said the car was driven by Veldon Crawford, Lynch, and struck Beschult after coming over a hill.

Tractor Accident Fatal At Greeley

GREELEY, Neb. — Frank J. Henn, 55, was killed Wednesday when his tractor tipped over and crushed him.

He was repairing fence along a road on the Earl Peterson farm southeast of here.

Western Area Gets Showers

Scattered thundershowers brought rain to Western Nebraska and more were forecast for Thursday.

In an area north and northeast of Harrisburg, in the far West, 1.45 inches of rain fell Wednesday after hailstones up to an inch in diameter covered the ground.

Chadron received 1.09 inches, Sidney got .40, Alliance .16, Imperial .08, and Scottsbluff and Valentine .01 in thundershowers Wednesday.

All other reporting stations had temperatures in the 80's. The tops were 87 at the Lincoln Airport and at Omaha and 88 at Imperial.

Thursday's highs are expected to only near 90.

Some parts of eastern Nebraska got a good soaking before the rains moved west.

Offutt Air Force Base south of Omaha reported 1.64 inches and Plattsmouth 1.58 inches.

In Regulations AND Driving Habits: 1-Way Streets 'Will Cause Changes'

By BILL DOBLER

Star Staff Writer

A major change in parking regulations is scheduled for 16th and 17th from Euclid to Holdrege when that one-way pair of streets is opened Aug. 21.

In addition to changes in parking, police department traffic division officers point out that some changes will also have to be made in the driving habits of Lincoln motorists.

Capt. Willis Manchester and Clinton Hurd have placed emphasis on the use of the left lane of traffic. The use of this lane, they said, will be a new experience for drivers in Lincoln and it is important that this lane be fully utilized.

Regulations for driving on the one-way system, north on 17th and south on 16th, are relatively simple. When turning into a one-way street, motorists should take the left lane if making a left turn and the right lane if making a right turn into the system.

Both-Side Passing

Passing is permitted on either side of the vehicle in front. Turns off the one-way pair are made from the left lane for left turns and the right lane for right turns.

Holdrege will be one-way for west bound traffic only into 16th. Euclid will be one-way east bound only into 17th.

Reaching Euclid traveling south on 16th, motorists will be able either to proceed south on 16th to South or travel east on Euclid to 17th where they can turn right to South.

Lights To Be Changed

In addition to the many signs that will guide motorists over the one-way pair, new lenses will be provided for the green traffic lights which face drivers entering the one-way system from the east or west. These lenses will have arrows on them directing the motorists to either go straight ahead or to turn right or left, according to the movement of traffic on the one-way pair.

All east-west entrances into the one-way pair will also have signs on the corners with arrows pointing the direction of traffic movement. These will be large signs for street intersections and smaller signs for alley and parking lot entrances into the one-way pair.

New traffic signal lights will be placed on 16th at A, D, G, M and Vine. On 17th, the only new signal will be at Vine.

Rules Listed

Parking regulations on the one-way system will be as follows: 17th, Euclid to Washington, parking on both sides of street facing north. Two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Washington to N. present ban lifted to permit parking on west side only facing north, three moving lanes of traffic. 17th, N. to O. parking on both sides of street facing north, three moving lanes of traffic. 16th, O. to present ban lifted to permit parking on west side only facing north, three moving lanes of traffic. 17th, R. to Vine, parking on east side only facing north, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Vine to Holdrege, no parking either side, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Holdrege to Vine, parking on west side only facing south, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Vine to F, parking on both sides facing south, three moving lanes of traffic. 16th, F to A, parking on west side only facing south, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, A to Garfield, parking east side only facing south, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Garfield to Prospect, parking on both sides facing south, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Prospect to Euclid, no parking either side, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, Euclid to 17th, parking north side only facing east, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, 16th to 17th, parking north side only facing east, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, 16th to 17th, parking north side only facing east, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, 16th to 17th, parking north side only facing east, two moving lanes of traffic. 16th, 16th to 17th, parking north side only facing east, two moving lanes of traffic.

Grim Rescuers Think Deaths May Reach 25; Martial Law Declared

CHAOS GRIPS VILLAGE OF ANDOVER

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — An explosion and fire in the nearby village of Andover killed at least 16 persons Wednesday night and injured more than 15, state highway patrolmen reported. They feared there might be nine or 10 more dead.

Six buildings were destroyed in the blast and a fire which burned fiercely for hours afterward. It was four hours before the blaze was put out. Most of the victims were burned beyond recognition.

State highway patrol headquarters at Columbus said martial law had been declared in the stricken village. Sixty troops from Vienna AFB near Youngstown were reported enroute to the village at the request of the Andover mayor.

At the scene, Dr. H. K. Lynne, deputy Ashtabula County coroner, said:

May Take Days

"It may take days to identify all" the bodies taken to a temporary morgue set up three blocks from the burned buildings. Jim Strickler, of Radio Station WMGW in Meadville, Pa., said firemen at midnight fixed a tentative death toll of 25, including some missing.

"Undoubtedly, there are more bodies in the debris," Strickler said. "All I saw were badly charred and practically unidentifiable."

The radio newsmen said the bodies in the building hit by the explosion fell into the basement and "they have trucks with winches pulling them out."

The blast occurred shortly before 7 p.m. in a two-story frame building housing an Italy dairy store and Gateway Restaurant. There was a severe electrical storm at the time. A number of persons had crowded into the restaurant to escape the storm.

Associated Press Photographer Julian Wilson said a fireman told him the explosion was caused by gas which accumulated in the blasted building.

Firemen and volunteer rescue workers from nearby communities moved in to help in the little village of 1,200 located 20 miles southeast of here near the Pennsylvania border.

No Power, Phones

The electrical storm had knocked out power lines and telephone communications, and the men worked by searchlights powered from electric generators. The telephone company said there would be no phone service before Thursday. Traffic was snarled for miles around.

"The end of the restaurant just seemed to fly right out," said Mrs. Amanda Smock.

Another woman who was about a five-minute walk away from the blasted building, said:

"The earth jarred under our feet. Windows broke in every direction."

Injured were taken to hospitals here and in Conneaut and Youngstown.

Creeping Connie Clutching Coast

HATTERAS, N. C. — Reports from Carolinas coastal points early Thursday recorded gale-force winds of from 70 to 75 miles an hour, indicating that Hurricane Connie may have started her long-delayed movement toward the mainland.

Mayor Frank Collier of Carolina Beach, N. C., said winds there had increased spiritedly over the last two hours and that weather bureau recordings showed variations up to 75 miles an hour.

This resort area is 60 miles north of Myrtle Beach, S. C. The latest weather bureau advisory issued had Connie 200 miles south-east of Myrtle.

Collier reported by telephone that high tides were flooding the streets in the resort town, threatening vacation cottages. Most of the beach population had been evacuated earlier.

At Wrightsville Beach, 10 miles north of Carolina Beach, officials reported the wind had increased to 50 miles an hour and that water was lapping at cottages as far inland as the "second row."

Connie has lurked off the Carolinas coast for two days, her 135-mile winds threatening a large section of the sea coast and bringing an alert to the entire eastern seaboard.

The wind is expected to reach hurricane force—75 miles an hour or higher — from Myrtle Beach northward to the Virginia Capes.

The Weather Bureau cautioned all coastal interests north of Jacksonville, Fla., to remain alert.

Most of the eastern seaboard, mindful of the three big hurricanes which killed more than 250 persons last year, watched Connie closely.

Killed 177

The hurricane loomed along the same path as Hazel, which ripped from South Carolina to Canada, ultimately taking 177 lives.

Vacationers and permanent residents by the hundreds fled the Carolina beaches. They had plenty of warning. Connie had been off-shore and well pinpointed by radar and hurricane hunter planes since early Tuesday.

Waves up to 15 feet high pounded and battered the beaches. Tides were running two to four feet higher than normal.

The first evacuation orders came from the Coast Guard station at Ft. Macon, N. C., near Morehead City and Beaufort. It was directed at the exposed communities at Salter Path, Emerald Isle and Atlantic Beach.

60 Elect To Brave Big Blow

... On Tower

BOSTON — Sixty workmen elected Wednesday to remain aboard a "Texas Tower" radar station 100 miles at sea off Cape Cod despite a Navy warning that the approach of hurricane Connie might make it impossible to take them off later.

Forty-three others were evacuated by the Coast Guard cutter McCulloch and are expected to reach Castle Island in Boston Harbor early tomorrow.

H. C. Duncan, project engineer for the contractors setting the 10 million dollar structure in place, said the men made the choice themselves.

60 Are Valuable

"We don't think there is any danger," Duncan said, "or we would evacuate all the men—those 60 lives are as valuable as the 43 men who were evacuated."

"The only danger," he added, "would be if green seas should hit it. It doesn't look as if that would happen."

The Coast Guard explained that green seas are those which pour over an object in a solid mass, rather than spraying it.

Duncan said the men who stayed aboard may expect spray to dash over the tower as hurricane-created gales sweep the sea.

Navy weather advisories forecast seas of 35 to 40 feet for the area tomorrow.

Duncan said all three supporting "legs" on which the big structure will stand are in place, driven 50 feet into the ocean bed. In addition, temporary legs, which held the tower while main supports were installed, still stand, imbedded 10 feet in the ocean floor.

The bottom of the huge platform is 63 feet above water—some distance beyond the reach of highest tides ever reported in the area.

The workmen who left the tower were carried off in a large bucket—lowered by a crane mounted on the platform—to the deck of the Coast Guard cutter.

Those who elected to stay were fully aware that such an operation would be out of the question in 35-foot seas, Duncan said.

School District Levy Set At 38.91 Mills

Action Is Expected Thursday After Study Of Budget Requests

The Lincoln School District levy has been tentatively computed at 38.96 mills ($38.96 per $1,000 assessed valuation) for 1955—an increase of 5.19 mills from the past year.

Official action setting the new levy based on the school district's budget requirements is expected to be taken Thursday by the Lancaster County Board of Equalization.

County Clerk J. B. Morgan said the levy would raise $5,558,317.81 for all school district funds as requested by the school board. In addition the district will receive $106,764 in intangible taxes.

The 1954 levy was 33.77 which raised a total of $4,712,043.59 for the district. This was about $850,000 less than requested this year.

The 1955 assessed valuation of the district is $142,677,295, compared with the 1954 assessed valuation of $139,533,420.

The breakdown of the computed 1955 levy and the amounts to be raised as compared with the 1954 levy and amounts, which are shown in parentheses, follows:

Fund	Mills	Amount
General	34.32	$4,896,059.86
General	(26.33)	($3,458,961.60)
General	8.99	$1,267,098.26
Bond Retirement	(7.5)	($1,046,000.00)
Bond Retirement	(1.93)	($272,400.00)
Bond Retirement	(1.8)	($256,840.00)
Bond Interest	.73	$104,633.74
Bond Interest	(.75)	($104,650.07)

The 1955 levy is expected to be rounded off at 5.83 mills from the 5.829 levy set earlier and the Lincoln school district has been tentatively computed at 38.96 mills.

The 1955 aggregate levy will probably be 71.615 mills or 71.62 per $1,000 valuation, compared with the 1954 levy of 61.299 mills.

The 1955 levies as seen compared with the 1954 levies are:

	1955	1954
State	10.11	8.432
County	5.83	3.997
City	14.715	13.10
Sanitary Dist.	2.00	2.00
School Dist.	38.96	33.77
Total	71.615	61.299

*City levy is subject to slight change and the school levy is expected to be set at the tentative figure shown.

Mr. Lincoln's Tax Bill Hiked

An Extra $10.42 For Each $1,000

Lincoln taxpayers can expect to pay about $10.42 more per $1,000 assessed valuation for 1955 state, county, city, school, and sanitary district taxes.

The county levy is expected to be rounded off at 5.83 mills from the 5.829 levy set earlier and the Lincoln school district has been tentatively computed at 38.96 mills.

The 1955 aggregate levy will probably be 71.615 mills or 71.62 per $1,000 valuation, compared with the 1954 levy of 61.299 mills.

2 Nabbed In $305,000 N.Y. Bank Holdup

Hoodlums Are Seized By FBI

... Hint Of Inside Job

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP) — Two hoodlums were seized by the FBI Wednesday as members of a four-man gang that staged a $305,000 bank holdup here April 6—the largest cash bank robbery in history.

For the first time, Asst. U. S. Atty. Paul Windels Jr., confirmed police suspicion the smoothly executed stickup of a Chase Manhattan branch bank was in part an inside job.

Windels said a bank employee helped the bandits. He did not point the finger at anyone specifically, although the wife of one of the arrested men worked at the bank at the time.

Warrants For Two

The FBI issued warrants for two other men, including a murderer who was a suspect from the start. Both these fugitives were described as armed and dangerous.

Also taken into custody as the case apparently broke wide open was a man described as a material witness.

Those arrested and charged with violating the National Bank Robbery Act were James McCoo, 36, and Frank Cocchiaro, 34. They live in Astoria, Queens, not far from the Woodside, Queens, holdup scene. The area is across the East River and about five miles from midtown Manhattan.

Held Without Bond

U. S. Commissioner Edward E. Fay held McCoo without bond. The government said he took part in the holdup. He has a record of nine prior arrests.

Cocchiaro was held in $50,000 bail, after Windels said he aided and abetted the holdup. He has a record as a thief.

The FBI said Cocchiaro's wife, Mildred, was a teller at work in the Chase Manhattan branch when it was robbed. She since has resigned.

The material witness is Vincent W. Kritil, 28, of Woodside. He was held in $40,000 bond after Windels said he was in danger of assassination by the bandits still at large.

A teller was kidnapped in the course of the holdup and under the federal bank robbery statute this makes the bandits liable to the death penalty if convicted.

Credit for cracking the record case went to FBI Agents Gerald J. Van Dorn and Donald F. Tackitt. But the FBI was tight-lipped about details.

With warrants at hand, the FBI redoubled its nationwide search for Redmond (Ninny) Cribbins, 48, alias Mike Malloy, and Thomas (Duke) Connelly Jr., 30.

A bank employee picked Cribbins' picture from among 200 rogue's gallery photographs the day after the bank robbery and Cribbins since has been sought for questioning.

Paroled In 1948

A husky 5 feet, 8 inches, the gray-haired Cribbins got out of Sing Sing Prison on parole in 1948 after serving 16 years for second degree murder.

Connelly is a steamfitter with a long prison record. New York police wanted him for questioning but gave no clue that they suspected he was a member of the bank robbery gang.

Connelly dropped from sight about the time of the holdup. His wife, Ann, and their two children, George, 2, and Veronica, 3, disappeared about 10 days later.

Late last month, the two Connelly children were found abandoned — the girl in a Baltimore dime store, the little boy in a Wilmington, Del., church 70 miles away.

Governors Talk Roads, Not Politics

CHICAGO (AP) — Governors sidetracked politics for official business at their annual conference Wednesday and received from President Eisenhower a renewed pledge of "wholehearted readiness to work with you" in solving vast highway and school problems.

A Democrat and a Republican governor called for a special session to push through highway legislation on which Congress couldn't agree at the regular session just adjourned.

As the first official business of their 47th conference, the chief executives of the states went into a "square-table" discussion of the huge and growing highway problem.

Financing Uncertain

Like Congress, they settled for the time being on no one method of financing. Some called for a compromise, some repeated the traditional demand of the states for the federal government to give up gasoline taxes and let them have this source of revenue for road construction.

Some sort of definite stand probably will come out of the conference in the form of a resolution Friday, via a Resolutions Committee of which Gov. Robert B. Mayner of New Jersey was named chairman.

In a message to the governors, Eisenhower said such problems as highway construction and a school building program—Congress also failed to act on a school bill—are of "sharp concern" both to the states and the nation.

In corridors and news conferences, outside the Edgewater Beach Hotel ballroom where governors sat around a hollow-square table and debated the highway issue, some political talk and maneuvering still rolled on.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Democrat, said the GOP probably will compel Eisenhower to run again in 1956 although, "He may die before the campaign starts."

Told that this sounded like a "cold-blooded statement," the 44-year-old Williams added that Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic candidate for president who is expected to try again next year, "or any of us may die before that time."

Williams' news conference contention that Eisenhower is "an old man" at 64 drew prompt counterblasts from two Republican colleagues.

Illegal Loup River Pumping May Bring Injunction Actions

Injunction proceedings against junior irrigators in the Loup River area who have refused to obey the order of the Bureau of Irrigation to quit pumping water from rivers, will probably be filed shortly, state officials said Wednesday.

Complaints have been received that irrigators with junior rights have continued pumping, depriving the senior right holders farther downstream from water they need. "We can't blame farmers who are watching their corn burn up for lack of water for taking it from streams," one official said. "But, the law has established a system of priorities and they will have to be enforced no matter what personal feelings of sympathy may be. If they get water some other farmer's crop will burn even though he has a priority."

Temperatures are growing short where farmers see a crop burning and a year's work wasted, the official admitted, but said that in fairness to all the law would have to be enforced.

If the injunctions are granted, then should further water be taken the one pumping the water would be subject to contempt of court proceedings and possible sentence to jail.

Paternity Blood Check Ruled Not Legal

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge Wednesday ruled unconstitutional a paternity blood test required of Chinese seeking entry to the United States. He called the test racial discrimination.

The case affects some 20,000 Chinese seeking American citizenship by representing themselves as sons of Chinese-Americans, conceived during periodic visits of their fathers to China.

Only a year ago, another district judge in the same federal court recognized the validity of the blood tests. The Justice Department hailed that decision as the "first tangible defense against fraudulent claims of identity."

Not Just Chinese

However, Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock ruled Wednesday that the practice was unconstitutional, saying in effect that all immigrants or none should be subjected to such tests, not just Chinese.

The ruling came in the case of three Chinese sons of a Chinatown groceryman.

The boys, Lee Kum Hoy, 25, Lee Kum Cherk, 16, and Lee Moon Wah, 15, claimed citizenship through their father, Lee Ha, an American citizen since 1926.

The Immigration Department tried to bar them and rejected Lee Ha's claim of paternity, contending they had flunked the blood tests.

Their attorney, Benjamin Gim, himself an American-born Chinese, then attacked the validity of the blood tests.

Una's Father Helping Her Figure Out Hubby Trouble

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The father of Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine was at her side today to offer advice in solving the marital mixup resulting from her marriage to a logger while her airman husband was in a Chinese Communist prison.

Ralph Howell of Brueneau, Idaho, and Una's stepmother joined her at her High Sierra hideaway Tuesday night.

Howell's only comment was that he knew both husbands and, "They are both nice young fellows."

The 20-year-old, auburn-haired Una said she married logger Alford Fine, 21, last September in the belief that her first husband, Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, 22, was dead.

He's One Friday

Schmidt is due of 11 American airmen recently released by the Chinese Reds. They are due back in the U. S. Friday at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco.

Una, who has a 2½-year-old son by Schmidt, said she did not learn definitely he was a war prisoner until November 1954, which was two months after she became Fine's wife.

However, she said she received a message from the Red Cross in June 1954, saying Schmidt possibly was a prisoner.

In Washington, the Air Force said the woman drew Air Force allotment checks regularly at least through July 31.

It also said a telegram was sent to Una on June 22, 1954, notifying her Schmidt was reported to be a Red prisoner.

The Air Force said it had a Western Union receipt showing the telegram was signed for but did not know who signed it.

The woman has steadfastly refused to say when and where she was married to Fine.

11 Airmen In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Eleven U. S. airmen, free after 2½ years in Chinese Red prisons, arrived in sunny Hawaii Wednesday on the way to their homes and families. Beauty queens draped their necks with flower leis and covered their faces with kisses.

Old friends crowded around them. High military officers beamed.

An Air Force band played "It's a Long Way to Usashima," the old World War I Tipperary tune with new lyrics written by Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., commander of the released airmen, on the way from Peiping, Unashima is GI slang for the United States.

Bullet Kills Mental Patient

HASTINGS, Neb. — A patient at the State Mental Hospital here died of a .22 caliber bullet wound in the head Wednesday.

Reuben Straw, 49, was found in a wooded area near a cemetery north of the hospital by another patient Tuesday afternoon.

It was not known until an autopsy was performed that Straw had been shot. A bullet was found lodged in his brain, said Sheriff Worthy B. Wood.

Straw was admitted to the hospital from Douglas County in 1939. The sheriff said no evidence has been uncovered to point to foul play, but that murder had not been ruled out completely.

No weapon was found in the vicinity. County Attorney Mel Kammerloh said it was possible Straw had been struck by a stray bullet from a hunter's gun.

4,400,000 Couples Can't Have Children

EXPERTS REVEAL REPORT

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A panel of five experts on infertility reported Wednesday that some 4,400,000 married couples in the United States are unable to have children even though they want them.

The experts said, however, that different kinds of treatment, including X-rays, hormones and some times surgery, can make parents out of 35 per cent of these couples.

One specialist, Dr. Shelton Payne of the Shelton clinic, of Westwood, said 17 per cent of the women in the tremendous childless group become pregnant without medical treatment.

He explained: "The release they obtain from talking to the doctor and taking the preliminary tests seem to act in such a way to reduce their infertility."

He said statistics also suggest that emotional stress, worry over finances and a sense of frustration over their inability to have a baby may play an important role in infertility.

Dr. Payne said the infertility deficiency occurs about equally in the husband as it does the wife, but that the husband's situation is much more difficult to correct.

Just Not True
Dr. Edward T. Tyler, of the University of California at Los Angeles medical center, took issue with a generally popular belief that a married woman who wants her own baby generally gets pregnant after she adopts a child.

Dr. Taylor said: "Certainly we hear this occurs, but I think it is the exception. We never hear of it when it does not come about. Moreover, statistics simply do not support this belief."

Dr. Lewis Michelson, emeritus professor of urology at Stanford University and past president of the American Society for the Study of Fertility, said great strides have been made during the past 15 years in helping childless couples over their greatest hurdle.

Labor Case Sent Back To IR Court

Federal Judge John W. Delehant has remanded a labor relations case filed by the Bee-Line Motor Freight Company back to the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, where the action was brought.

Bee-Line, associated with the Small Carriers Association, had instituted the suit in the state court to enjoin the cutting off, by union direction, its interlined freight.

Named defendants were Truck Drivers' and Helpers Local 754, Grand Island, and General Drivers and Helpers Local 554, Omaha, and some 20 large trucking companies.

The defendant unions had sought to remove the case to the U.S. District Court, before Judge Delehant remanded the case.

Man Pleads Guilt In Adultery Case

Earl K. Foreman, 25, of Cheney pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court to a charge of adultery, involving a 25-year-old, Lincoln woman.

In his plea, Foreman admitted being married to another woman, and to having sexual relations with the complaining witness last Saturday.

Adultery, a misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty of one year in the county jail.

Judge Harry Spencer deferred sentence pending an investigation by the adult probation officer.

Arraignment Is Set For Flying Low Over City

A Lincoln man was expected to be arraigned Friday on two counts of flying too low over the city.

Richard R. Seibel of 2635 Randolph has been charged in Lancaster County Court with flying too low to permit emergency landing and flying at an altitude of less than 1,000 feet over the city of Lincoln.

The complaint was signed by Leonard L. Hancock, chief of the state aviation safety division.

The misdemeanors charged carry a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and a six-month jail term.

On A Small Scale

The distinguished science writer of the New York Times, William L. Laurence, presently attending the Geneva exhibit revealing progress toward peacetime application of atomic energy, supplies an evaluation, badly needed, of Russian accomplishment.

He reports that atomic scientists representing the West are agreed that Russia has turned in high caliber work but is still considerably behind the United States, Britain, Canada and even possibly France. Russia's first nuclear reactor, part of the atomic power station of that country, has a power output of 5,000 kilowatts, rather small compared with those being built here or in Britain. But it is probably the first reactor that has provided electric power for consumption anywhere in the world. It has been operating since June of 1954.

Laurence comes to the conclusion, apparently, that Soviet science has made some progress not enjoyed here, chiefly through plants for separating two isotopes of uranium.

Generally it is recognized that the long-awaited peacetime application of atomic energy to the benefit of mankind still is ahead. There are those with scientific training of the opinion that another 10 years will lapse before the full use of the new force will assert itself to markedly change our world.

Itchy-Footed Americans

It is estimated that 800,000 Americans will make foreign tours this year, spending in the neighborhood of five and a half billion for the outing. That is a whale of a lot of people and a whale of a lot of money. It is also a record for peacetime travel.

Quite a number of foreign countries can use their share of the five-and-a-half-billion-dollar travel fund, and it goes without saying that the touring Americans will get some benefits besides the pleasure of travel. They will be made more world-conscious and will live hereafter with more a sense of realism, having visited the places they have read about.

But itchy feet and a desire to see the unseen is not a new American characteristic. There was a lot of it in the founding fathers who left their home countries to make new homes here. And there was a lot of it in the pioneers who couldn't resist a long trip west—one way. And there is still a lot of it in the millions of Americans who fill the highways, making sure there is no part of the country's sights that have escaped them. We imagine it will be the Americans who will make up the biggest end of the travel list when rockets start offering excursions to the moon.

This recent yen for foreign travel can be laid partly to American prosperity. But it also is resulting from a quickened interest in international relations brought about by the country's ascendancy as a world power. The Americans are briefing themselves.

Long-Range Planning

When genial, capable Nebraska State Fair Board Secretary Ed Schultz took over the helm some years ago, the outlook was not too pleasing. The debt against the grandstand stood at $209,500. Due to circumstances of drought and depression well known to all Nebraskans, it had been impossible to make needed repairs or to plan the renovation of portions of the physical plant of the Nebraska State Fair.

Mr. Schultz and his associates in charge of

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Former President Herbert Hoover was devoting a few hours to a region bathed in the golden memories of boyhood. He was at Newberg, Ore., on the occasion of his 81st birthday to participate in the dedication of a cottage where, after the death of his parents in Iowa, he lived with an uncle, Dr. Henry John Minthorn, a country doctor. The cottage belonged to Dr. Minthorn.

Mr. Hoover is a genius for reviving the nostalgic spirit of the pioneering days. Few if any are so gifted in marching back to the western settlements to recall the beauty and the glory of an earlier America. Thus he spoke of that enchanted cottage and its surroundings in this language:

Those Were The Days

"This is a time and a place of stimulated affections and recollections. In this cottage and orchard with its cherries, its apples and its pears, I spent formative years of my boyhood. Here I roamed the primitive forests with their carpets of flowers, their ferns, their never-forgettable fragrance. There were no legal limits on the fish you could catch. No warden demanded to see your license. From those impressions on Oregon boys come always the call to return to her again and again. I have omitted any reference to my boyhood contacts with poison oak—that is not part of the call." A modest man, naturally the former President made no reference to the skill which later he developed with rod and reel. Among all of the distinguished Americans occupying the White House, most of them understandably devoted to the great outdoors by reason of the burdens the office imposes, we think Mr. Hoover stands at the top as an expert angler. It came to him naturally. He is still adept at whipping the waters of the streams and lakes, a born fisherman at his best when casting expertly.

It was to be expected that as a part of the dedication ceremony he would reawaken memories of another America, bright and sparkling in his youth, yet to learn even slightly of the strength of its maturity. He paid a rich, fitting tribute to the country doctor, among whom an uncle served as a typical symbol as the devoted practitioner of the then known healing arts.

Then he turned to the everyday tasks of the small boy in these words: "My first day in Newberg was spent in making acquaintance with lovable Aunt Laura. My aunt was rather a stern person. She had few words and they were devoted mostly to moral requirements. But she relaxed when I needed to go fishing or to explore the woods. When I arrived on the Oregon scene, she was busy with my girl cousins making the winter store of pear butter from pears which grew profusely in this yard. I had never eaten a pear before, as my family circumstance in the Midwest did not permit that exotic luxury. She showed me how to stir the kettle, indicated that I had to keep going without any stops. But at the same time, she said: 'There can eat all the pears thee likes.' I liked the idea, and I liked it too much. Then she tucked a sick small boy into bed. I ceased to eat pears—for a while. One of my chores was to split the wood for stove-size current use. I have had little opinion of split wood as a household fuel ever since. But I can still hear Aunt Laura calling me from much more desirable occupation: 'It is time thee gets in the wood.'"

That is a long way from engineering in China, from feeding the Belgians, from the countless conferences any President in the White House faces, or the cruel decisions which fall on his shoulders. But it is Americana at its very best. It recaptures a period of American life so beautifully, recaptures the satisfactions and the happiness of small boys who may have lived in the simple style of a new country and then moved on to greater worlds and greater things. And though only a few may have acquired the great distinctions that came to Mr. Hoover, in these August days the thoughts of many men go back to those golden years of boyhood.

DREW PEARSON

Ike As President Pondering Future

WASHINGTON — What's happening inside the Republican high command today is almost identical with what happened inside the democratic high command in 1944—with one important exception.

Like the Democratic bosses of a decade ago with FDR, Republican leaders today are determined to nominate Eisenhower again, regardless of age, health or anything else.

In 1944, Franklin Roosevelt was engrossed with world affairs. The war was almost won. He was already concentrating on the problems of peace. Domestic affairs had been largely delegated to others. Some of them were not in good shape. Democratic leaders knew that if they picked any other candidate, that if the election campaign were run on domestic issues, they would lose.

So a careful publicity campaign began not only to make Roosevelt the indispensable man but to conceal from the public the true facts about his health.

And in July, 1944, as the Democrats gathered in Chicago to pick their candidate, Roosevelt started on a cruise up the West Coast to Alaska—obviously for his health. Simultaneously, Bob Hannegan, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Mayor Ed Kelley of Chicago, and other party bosses, knowing that Roosevelt could not possibly last a full term, concentrated on the choice of their own man for vice president.

It was one of the most deceitful strategies ever put across on the voting public.

GOP LEADERS REPEAT

Today, Republican leaders are equally determined to nominate Dwight Eisenhower, in part for the same reasons. They know that any other Republican candidate would have a hard time winning. They know that on domestic issues—Dixie-Yates, farm prices, big business monopoly—the Republicans face a rough campaign. But on international issues they feel Eisenhower has struck a winning streak and can be promoted as the "indispensable man."

However, there is one big difference. Eisenhower so far hasn't bought the GOP line. Unlike Roosevelt, who was willing to go along with party leaders, Eisenhower has been telling them for months that they had to pick new young leaders, that he was not going to run again.

On Jan. 4, this column reported in detail on one of the private dinners at the White House at which Ike told his closest friends that they must begin building up new, "dynamic" men to replace him.

This writer has consistently reported—with one exception—that Ike did not want to run again. The exception was a column written from Geneva, where it seemed to this observer that Ike had hit his stride, was doing the things he likes best to do, and probably could be persuaded to run again on a "peace-in-our-time" platform.

However, the recent meeting he had with Sen. George Bender and other Ohio Republicans indicates to the contrary and is more significant than the public realizes. For Sen. Bender and friends did not want to tell newsmen what Ike told them. They had to be prodded by the White House into making a statement.

George Bender is quite a friendly, loquacious fellow. He talks to the press at a drop of a hat. But he did not want to give newsmen the discouraging news that Ike considered age a detriment to running again.

And it was only when Ike's press officer intervened and asked the Ohioans to report what Ike had told them that they spilled the news that GOP leaders had heard privately, but hated to hear publicly. In brief, the president deliberately wanted published the fact that he would be the oldest president in history if re-elected and his feeling that the burden of the presidency erodes a man's health.

Eisenhower deserves a lot of credit for being so frank with the American public. FDR was not so frank.

Ike's frankness coincides with sentiment in Congress to set up a medical board to examine all presidential candidates of both parties before the nominating conventions. The fact the Sen. Taft, Republican, died shortly after an election which might have made him president; that Wendell Willkie, Republican, died shortly after a nominating convention which might have picked him for a second time; and the fact that Franklin Roosevelt, Democrat, died just four months after taking the oath of office has spurred the idea of health examinations no matter who the candidate.

For the fact is, as Eisenhower indicated, that the presidency of the United States is the most physically crushing office in the world. And while the life span of the average American has increased, the life span of presidents has decreased under that crushing burden.

Over one-fifth of our presidents have died or been killed in office—seven in all—incidentally all being Republicans except Roosevelt. And the significant fact is that they have been dying younger as this country has grown bigger and the strain of the most difficult job in the world has increased.

Only three presidents were as old as Eisenhower when elected, two of them being generals. One, William Henry Harrison, lived one month after being elected. The other, Gen. Zachary Taylor, lived little more than a year as president.

Taking the ages of the 33 past presidents, 60 per cent of them lived to the age of 66—which will be Eisenhower's age at the end of his first term.

In more recent years our presidents have died younger. Of the last 22 presidents, only 50 per cent have lived to the age of 66, while of the last 15 presidents, only 46 per cent have lived to the age Eisenhower will reach at the end of his first term.

These are the sobering facts Eisenhower has been considering, and one reason why he talked to Ohio Republicans so frankly about the erosion of age in the life of any man who occupies the White House.

DORIS FLEESON

U.S. Diplomatic Switch In Egypt

CAIRO — Secretary of State Dulles has compounded Egypt's confusions over America by replacing the statesmanly former dean of U.S. diplomats, Jefferson Caffery, here with a thoroughly relaxed, Democratic junior, Henry Byroade.

Byroade celebrated his 42nd birthday last week. Egypt is his first ambassadorial post but he has already been an assistant secretary of state.

Tall, athletic and darkly good-looking, Byroade rather resembles Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan and has the same cheerful forthrightness. At home, this, with complete absence of side, took the curse off his formidable reputation as "a brain" who was coming up in the department very fast, indeed.

The embassy realized that it was getting a "new look" in ambassadors when Byroade strolled about the gardens, introducing himself to the Marine guards and the gardeners. The Egyptians get the same main street treatment, in contrast to the strict protocol of the Caffery regime. It is one of the favorite topics.

Caffery, of course, was no mere Edwardian gentleman nor striped-pants diplomat of the stereotype dear to the McCarthy isolationists. He was a thoroughly experienced, tough-minded career man who had held big jobs and mastered difficult situations. In the tortuous Anglo-Egyptian negotiations he twisted arms on both sides; many give him major credit for its fruition.

But, unquestionably, he was old-school tie. He rode, not walked, to his destinations. He lived and entertained in high style.

Cairo didn't object; it seemed to like it. For it is a fact that the former colonies of the British empire usually prefer the British to the gregarious, generous, anti-colonial Americans. Perhaps they have merely been conditioned to their former masters, and you rarely meet a man in a once-British possession who longs to send his son to dear old swish to learn to be like us; he wants him to go to Cambridge.

A West Pointer, Byroade was started on the path upward by that proved spotter of army talent, Gen. Marshall, who reached down many numbers to pick a Gen. Eisenhower for the crusade in Europe. Byroade served Marshall as his chief of staff and accompanied him on his controversial China mission.

He was passed on later to the then Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who put him on the German desk. For three years before coming here he was assistant secretary of state for this area, the Near East, southeast Asia and Africa. He was thus in a key position when the policy-makers woke up to the fact that the Middle East conceivably could slip away from the West without a shot being fired. The present policy of shoring up the Arab world has since been in the making. It is difficult and tedious and subject to frustrating delays. For example, the negotiations for the great Jordan water project with which Eric Johnston has long struggled have just been postponed again.

Meanwhile, it is Byroade's job to reassure Egypt that the policy is not directed against her desire, as the most stable power of this area, to lead it but is aimed only at restraining imperialist Communism.

Byroade is married and has three boys, the oldest 16. Their interest, like their father's in their new environment is intense and the whole quartet is a familiar sight loping around the pyramids, the solar boat and the other enticements for amateur archeologist.

GRETCHEN AND JANINE LOOS

... the spilling of cornflakes is strictly "accidental" ...

By ALLEN EDEE

Star Staff Writer

Gretchen, the part miniature dachshund, is only 10 months old but already she is a breezeway bum.

The canine, owned by Janine, 2½, Johnny, 6, and Mrs. Kenneth Loos, has the favorite pastime of sleeping her days away in the breezeway at 2248 So. 50th.

And when she is not sleeping, Gretchen goes to visit Cindy, a huge black neighbor girl friend dog. Although the pair resembles a Mutt and Jeff combination, the fact disturbs neither. They have common troubles to talk over.

But when Gretchen wants action, she can be as lively as a mouse. She will dash right into the children's swimming pool after Janine and Johnny. The dog is not a bit afraid of water.

Another favorite bit of play is when Johnny throws a rope at her. Gretchen will bite and tug on it as if her little life were at stake.

The reddish brown dachs is a great breakfast cereal eater. When Janine sits down to breakfast, Gretchen is right underneath, ready to mooch some cornflakes. And when some flakes "accidentally" spill on the floor, the low-slung lady will make a meal out of them.

Gretchen is a sleek-coated canine. The owners attribute her rich fur to an egg a day. She eats 'em raw and likes it.

All in all, the dachs is a favorite of the Loos family, except when she chews on shoes. This persistent bad habit has forced the owners carefully to guard their shoes.

Cloud Dreams On A Summer Day

Cloud-watching is an art too often neglected by adults and too little practiced by children on the city streets.

This is the time of year for cloud-watching, when the great soft masses pile up in the sky, white and gray and blue, or the little streamers of vapor chase the wind to the horizon, or the mackerel clouds look like an inverted, wave-washed beach overhead.

The lucky boy or girl—or man or woman, for that matter—is the one who can stretch out with the sweet-smelling grass of an open hillside for a backrest, and in a mood of contented laziness let eyes and mind wander in the fantasy nature has created in the sky. This is a cure for depression and a palliative for ragged nerves. It is therapy of greater excellence than any to be found within four walls.

To approach the business of cloud-watching in the way it should be approached, you must first clear your mind of the foolish limitations of logic and practicality, for the realm of the clouds is a fairy-tale realm where a rabbit can change to a warrior, or a ship may suddenly become a frog, and there is no reason for surprise.

There are castles in the sky, and big soft haystacks to bounce on. There are rounded steps where seven-league boots could take you higher and further into new enchantments, with the virtual certainty that behind each great new puffball lives some new and friendly creature of a kind never before seen.

Peering closely, it is easy to see that between the cloudbanks that seem so solid, there are valleys and canyons, glens and dells. And because that is the way clouds are, you can be sure no one was ever hurt in them. There you may fall from the lip of a precipice, and float in the air, and at the bottom, bounce softly, rising to climb another cloud and try it again.

If you are a child, you can roll the clouds about and make snow men of them, and never get cold. If you are a boy in love, you can wander with your girl through the silent loveliness, and never a soul to interrupt you. For those in the middle years, there is rest in the clouds, and for the aged, there is the past to find again, just behind some towering, opaque mountain.

For this is the beauty of cloud watching—that it is not just looking, for soon some magic takes you into the gently changing, soft and friendly country in the sky, where everything is just as it should be and adventure is shorn of risk and danger. It is not without reason that man has coined the phrase, "walking on the clouds," to describe the best of his feelings.

You cannot watch clouds in a hurry, for then you would be just looking at them. Cloud-watching is a thing that takes a whole afternoon, or a great part of it, at least—but can you think of a better way to spend an afternoon than walking on the clouds?

I think that every person ought to set aside a part of the year for cloud-watching, and I know of no better part of the year for it than the one we are in.

Give Brainwashed Airmen A Better Deal—Air Force Ass'n

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Air Force Assn. Wednesday prepared an appeal to the Defense Department for a better break for airmen who have been subjected to Communist brainwashing.

The organization of 40,000 Air Force veterans, servicemen and air power enthusiasts, opening its annual convention, disclosed at a news conference that it is drafting a resolution calling for:

1. More thorough preliminary briefings and instruction for military personnel on the treatment they may expect if captured by the enemy, on the propaganda uses which the enemy may make of their comments, and on the information they may give safely to the brainwashers.
2. Greater assurance to captured men that they have not been forsaken, and that their country will take strong measures for their release.
3. Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, chairman of the board of the association, said captured airmen are entitled to confidence that their country will stand behind them—and if they cannot have this assurance, they are likely to crack more easily.
4. Kenney said captured men should have been prepared ahead of time as to information which would be meaningless in an enemy's hands and should be allowed to give out any such information.

Kenney, who directed the World War II air offensive from New Guinea all the way to Japan, also declared the Russians are not to be trusted in their good will efforts.

Kenney was joined in this stand by John Alison, association president and vice president of Northrop Aircraft, Los Angeles.

Alison said the Air Force Assn. worked hard for the current 137-wing Air Force goal, but now feels, in the light of recent Russian displays, that Intelligence estimates were inadequate.

"There should be a re-evaluation of the force levels required to meet the Russian threat," Alison said.

Gill Robb Wilson, nominee for president of the Air Force Assn. in opening this 9th annual national convention, warned against complacency about the status of U.S. air power.

U.S. Taking Tin

SINGAPORE (AP) — The United States is continuing to take more than three-fifths of all of Malaysia's tin exports. Tin production is averaging 6,000 tons per month and exports are right up to that mark.

Handicap Classes Help 3,018 Kids

The special education program of the state was participated in by 3,018 handicapped children during the last school year according to the annual report of F. B. Decker, commissioner of education.

The report, prepared by Vernon E. Hungate, state director of special education, lists 117 approved programs in 71 local school districts. Cost of operations for which the districts were reimbursed, amounted to $239,269.

Speech handicaps of pupils outnumbered other categories with a total of 2,112. Mentally handicapped were next with 451 enrolled, hard of hearing 16, homebound 219, orthopedically crippled 201 and partially sighted 9.

The reports contained information on laws passed by the last Legislature which permits increased payments for the educable mentally handicapped. Information available is listed for those interested in the education and care of handicapped children.

The report lists the towns where schools have special services together with the number of pupils and therapists employed.

State Deeds Burnham Street Strip To City

A deed to a 30 foot strip along the north edge of state property between 14th and 17th streets on Burnham Street will be given by the state to the City of Lincoln for construction of a street of adequate width.

L. N. Ress, state engineer, said it was understood that the Highway Department will not consent to assessment against it of any part of the cost of the improvement. He explained that the proposed street does not serve the state's property.

Forgery Increases

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Donald Schoof, Detroit postal inspector, says bad check artists are having a field day at the expense of merchants who still think the customer is always right. Addressing a law enforcement conference at Michigan State University, Schoof said it has become ridiculously easy to cash a forged check. "Rank novices are swarming into the racket because merchants are so afraid of offending a customer," said Schoof.

Jessie Seymour Dies At Age 68

Miss Jessie Seymour, 68, a retired school teacher who had been in Lincoln since last January, died Wednesday.

Miss Seymour, who lived at 1422 No. 44th, had taught in Madison, Wis. She was born in Iowa.

She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and Daughters of the American Revolution.

Surviving is her brother, Burton Seymour of Lincoln.

Tarzan Gets Hurt

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Even Tarzan can get hurt.

From Africa, where "Tarzan and the Lost Safari" is shooting, came a cable to the home studio advising that star Gordon Scott had broken his foot and can't work for a while.

It happened during filming at Thompson Falls in Kenya, British East Africa, but the cable didn't say how.

Scott, the 11th film Tarzan and successor to Lex Barker, is working in his second Tarzan film.

Other NU Fire Inspections Set

A survey of buildings at the University of Nebraska to determine if fire hazards exist will be made soon, G. E. Ekstrand, assistant state Fire Marshal, announced. He said buildings on both the city and agricultural campus would be inspected.

Look! we've never made it easier for you to say "yes"

Our high allowances for trades are based on higher volume (Mercury sales are breaking all records). Our terms have never been easier (tailored to fit any budget). And remember—Mercury prices start below 13 models in the low-price field.* So why settle for a smaller, less powerful car when it's so easy to own this big 188-horsepower Mercury? Stop in and hear our offer today.

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested list or factory retail prices, using a Mercury Custom 2-door Sedan.

IT PAYS TO OWN A MERCURY FOR FUTURE STYLING, SUPER POWER

SEE WHAT YOU GET WHEN YOU MOVE UP TO MERCURY

- Exclusive styling. Mercury's beauty is fresh, distinctive—shared by no other car.
- A bigger car all over. Far bigger than "low-price" cars—in length, width, and wheelbase.
- Super power and torque. The lowest cost Mercury (the 188-horsepower Custom shown above) is the most powerful car at its price. And you get 198 horsepower in the Montclair series. Usable power (torque) is up as much as 30% in all speed ranges for brilliant new pickup and passing power.
- Extra luxury. Instead of ordinary upholstery, you get special fabrics, patterns and color combinations.
- Extra-value features at no extra cost. Dual exhausts on 8 out of 11 models, 4-barrel carburetors, new anti-fouling spark plugs, ball-joint front suspension—and many others.
- High future trade-in value. Mercury consistently leads its field for resale value.

POSTCARD

Everybody in Carmel, Calif., assures me that the good old days are gone and the village is going to pot under the pressures of progress. I guess they are right. A good many years when I was growing up here, people said the same thing.

It is certainly a long time going to pieces. But one thing you can say: It has been moving that way steadily.

In my salad days, the village elders were mainly authors and playwrights and painters and sculptors. Carmel was a high level village and had no spiritual kinship with Monterey over the hill.

Progress has never been fought more fiercely than in Carmel. Carmel fought Progress like other towns fought Sin.

"No street signs. No paving. No sidewalks." That was the Carmel creed.

The artists said street signs would spoil the scenic beauty of pine and sand. And the writers said if they laid footsie to pavement, literature would take a terrible beating.

The other day I took a walk down Ocean avenue. The main street of Carmel runs right downhill to the Pacific. A strip of Monterey pines divides the street and in the good old days, we parked under them in the gravel.

The pines are now enclosed in concrete. We park on the side of the street by the sidewalk. Just like city folks.

There is some talk of putting in parking meters!

I remember a time when some displaced soul suggested putting street numbers on houses. We took away his palette license and drummed him out of town.

In that dreamy unprogressive era, the police force was a moustached name of Gus England. He rode a white horse and if you had given him a book of parking tickets, he probably would have thought it was a raffle.

Carmel has prowl cars now. If you park overtime in the green, you get a little slip under the windshield wiper.

That is the way Progress sneaks up on you.

It is a good deal the way my grandma said Sin sneaked up on you unless you kept a wary eye on the Devil and his devilish tricks.

You started off with one social beer. Pretty soon your children were in rags and selling matches for a living.

That is possibly what is happening in Carmel. You pave a street. People want to drive on it. If you drive on it, they want to park on it. Pretty soon you have tickets, parking meters. Everybody is mad.

Monterey, a couple of miles over the piney hill, did not suffer from this split personality. It was the old Spanish-Mexican capital. It's major ambition was to pull down the old adobe which had housed Spanish governors and to put up modern brick buildings.

In this progressive move, Monterey would grow and become almost like San Francisco which was trying hard to become like New York.

However, Monterey lacked money to pull down all the old buildings. And, in these good old days, has found the old buildings quite a tourist attraction. They are giving the historic sites a progressive coat of paint.

The sardine industry has lapsed since the Monterey sardine has gone away, nobody knows where or why.

But the old sheds on the wharf where the Japanese women beat abalone steaks tender with wooden mallets, make quaint restaurants. You get Carmel artists to come over and paint quaint pictures on the walls.

Oh, yes. The Carmel Valley ranches are being subdivided when the frost is on the pumpkin and the corn is in the shock.

We have a post office these days and a rural box delivery. Carmel stands fast with the old ways: You go down to the post office and get your mail or by golly you don't get your letters.

No mailman's progressive foot has stirred the unsidewalked side streets to this blooming day.

The village stores and the village houses are unnumbered. Directions are like "third house from the corner of Eighth and Junipero."

Utah Youths Recaptured After Brief Jail Break

Boys Forced Opening In Steel Bars

OGALLALA, Neb. (AP) — Two Utah youths, held here after a four-day cross country crime spree, were captured 10 minutes after they escaped from the Keith County Jail Wednesday.

Sheriff Wayne Elliott said Carl Lee McHenry, 15, and Gary Dudley Lyman, 17, tore a water pipe from a radiator and forced an 18-inch opening in the steel bars to escape from their cell. They then broke a window in the front door.

The sheriff's wife, upstairs from the jail, heard the glass break and notified police.

Elliott, who was a block away talking to Police Officer Stanley Edwards, saw the two youths run across the courthouse lawn just as the police radio sounded an alert.

The officers gave chase and McHenry stopped. Edwards caught Lyman after a two-block run.

The sheriff said jailbreaking charges would be filed against the pair.

McHenry and Lyman Monday were sentenced to the Boys Training School at Kearney in connection with a grocery break-in at Brule, Neb., July 24.

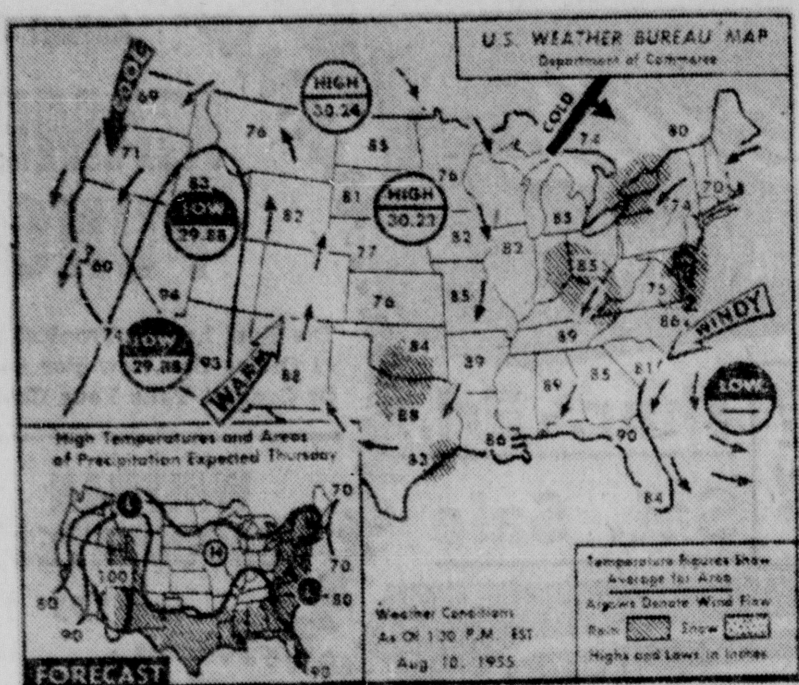

McHenry's 17-year-old brother, Edward, was given a two-year sentence to the Nebraska Reformatory in Lincoln.

All three pleaded guilty to burglary charges.

Case Continued
A fourth member of the group, Wanda Barton, 15, pleaded innocent before District Judge I. J. Nisley earlier this week. Her case was continued.

The four Salt Lake City teenagers were captured at Sutherland, Neb., July 24 when police said they caught them stealing gasoline. Sheriff Elliott said the four also admitted an attack on a police officer at Murray, Utah, the previous Wednesday night.

Both Hartington Doctors Are Ill

HARTINGTON, Neb. (AP)—Hartington is without the services of a physician. Both of the town's resident doctors are sick.

Dr. F. P. Dorsey Jr., suffered a heart attack during a Minnesota vacation and is hospitalized there.

Dr. J. P. Hahan was taken to a Sioux City hospital with a serious gall bladder condition.

Bus Service Cut Awaiting Fund Check

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP) The Hastings City Council has decided to check company financial records before making a decision on the Hastings Bus Lines' request for a service cut.

Council members temporarily denied the request of the firm to run one bus in place of three which have operated after 6:30 p.m., and to discontinue all Sunday service.

The firm originally asked to discontinue all evening service but later altered that request.

Councilmen said their recommendation would be based on the examination of the company's financial record and on public opinion.

Wilsonville Youth Drowns In Lake

WILSONVILLE, Neb. — Funeral services were held here for Melvin Dick Jurey, 19, who drowned in Harry Strunk Lake near Cambridge.

Jurey had been on a fishing trip with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Jurey of Wilsonville, and other relatives.

It was the first drowning in Harry Strunk Lake.

Lutheran Missions Slated At Hastings, Grand Island

Lincoln Star Special
SEWARD, Neb.—“Every Christian having a living, thankful interest in his own salvation must certainly be intensely interested in bringing others to Christ,” declared the Rev. Walter W. Koenig of Lincoln, chairman of the Mission Board of the Southern Nebraska District of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, at the group’s convention session here Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. Koenig and the Rev. Otto R. Heintz of Crete, the board’s secretary, outlined the mission program for the delegates.

Land has been purchased for the establishment of new missions in Hastings and Grand Island, the Rev. Mr. Koenig disclosed.

The Rev. Charles H. Born of Lincoln, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, organized in northwest Lincoln in 1953, reported that the young congregation has grown to 375 baptized members.

Prof. Haase Honored
A memorial service was held for the late Prof. Karl Haase, professor of music at Concordia Teachers College at Seward for many years. The Rev. O. A. Graebner of Grand Island conducted the service.

The Rev. Walter Wilkens of Omaha enlisted the support of the convention for the Lutheran Mission Society, the Lutheran Hospital Association, and the Lutheran Old People’s Home, all of Omaha.

The Rev. John Bredehoff of Lincoln, evangelism contact man in the district, told the convention, “Evangelism is not just an extra thing tacked onto a church’s program. It is its business. It is the very reason for which the church is here.”

Officials Make Trip To Ripley For Guard Review

Two planes will take Nebraskans to Camp Ripley, Minn., Thursday for the annual review of the 34th Infantry Division troops in summer training there, it was announced Wednesday.

One plane will leave from Lincoln carrying Secretary of State Frank Marsh, who will represent the governor: Gen. B. B. Miltonberger, North Platte; Col. Albert H. Smith, Lexington, and Sen. Lester Anderson, Aurora.

From Omaha, a plane will leave with Speaker Dwight Burney of Hartington and Sens. Karl Vogel, William Moulton and Charles Tyrdik of Omaha and Sens. John Beaver of Beemer, and Monroe Bixler of Harrison.

The division is composed of National Guard units from Nebraska and Iowa. Maj. Gen. Warren Wood of Gering, is commander.

Maj. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, adjutant general of Nebraska is already at the camp.

The review will be held Friday morning and the the Nebraska visitors will fly home later in the day.

Necessary Equipment
BETHLEHEM, Conn. (AP)—Volunteer firemen were burned up when someone swiped dozens of pin-up pictures that had adorned the firehouse walls for months. The chief said the pictures served a useful purpose by promoting attendance at company meetings.

College Head Present
Dr. Martin J. Neeb, president of the new Missouri Synod Senior College at Fort Wayne, Ind., appeared as a visitor at the convention. He revealed that the first buildings of the Senior College are now under construction.

The new school is expected to cost over $5,000,000, Dr. Neeb said. The home-like dormitories, designed to house 34 students each, will be grouped in units of four, thus making possible a closer relationship between the students and their resident-counselors.

“Sanctification, is the life of love to God and men, which flows from faith in Jesus Christ as the savior from sin,” declared Prof. Fred Kramer of Concordia Theological Seminary at Springfield, Ill., in his talk before the convention.

“The practical results in the life of the Christian are that, while not ignoring the blessings of the world, he cultivates the spirit of contentment, practices self-denial, confesses his faith in God before men, and engages in acts of mercy and charity,” Prof. Kramer added.

NU Work Reviewed
The Rev. A. J. Norden of the University Lutheran Chapel in Lincoln reported on his work among the students at the University of Nebraska. “Fine progress has been made,” he stated, “through the work of the members of the student congregation. Much mission work is being done among the un-churched students on the campus, particularly through the efforts of the fraternity, Beta Sigma Psi, and the national Lutheran organization of university students, Gamma Delta.”

The Rev. Henry Dorn, Sidney, chairman of the resolutions committee, presented the resolution of the Board of Parish Education, encouraging the observance of Lutheran Education Week with particular emphasis on the increase of adult Bible class attendance. The convention adopted this resolution.

The Rev. H. C. Moellering of Grand Island informed the delegates of the work that he is doing in the institutions of Grand Island on the behalf of the district.

The Rev. John Knippenberg, Central City, chairman of the board of support and pensions, reported that almost 100% of the pastors and teachers were participating in the pension fund of the Missouri Synod.

50 Algerian Rebels Encircled By French

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—French forces seeking to avenge an ambush in which 14 of their men were killed on Aug. 3, have encircled a force of about 50 Algerian nationalist rebels to the north of the oasis of Sidi Aoun, near Biskra.

Units of the French Foreign Legion, Senegalese infantry, camel corps and paratroopers are participating in the action. French planes also took part.

Anderson To Attend Greek-American Fete

BAYARD, Neb. (AP)—Gov. Victor Anderson will attend the annual Greek-American picnic Aug. 16.

The event is to be held eight miles east of here. It annually draws a large number of Greeks from all over the Midwest.

Parade An Addition At Scotts Bluff Fair

MITCHELL (AP)—A parade has been added to the Scotts Bluff County Fair program to be held here Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

The parade will be held opening day and will include a full array of floats, exhibits and bands.

Harness horse racing also is an added new feature for each afternoon of the fair.

Seven days of pari-mutuel racing are scheduled for Sept. 3-10. There will be eight races daily for the week, with the exclusion of Sunday.

Power Tangle Decision May Come Sept. 9 Storm Fails To Halt Emergency Mission

THE LINCOLN STAR 11
Thursday, August 11, 1955

Many Districts Involved In Suit

COLUMBUS, Neb. — District Judge H. Emerson Kokjer Wednesday set Sept. 9 at the date he hopes to reach decisions in the complicated legal battle over Nebraska's public power.

Involved in the suit are Nebraska hydroelectric districts, Consumers Public Power District, and a group of associated rural public power districts.

Kokjer was here to hear final arguments in the lawsuits that were to begin in April, 1954. He said he would study the volumes of testimony, exhibits and briefs. He hopes to be back in the court room Sept. 9 with the decisions, Kokjer added.

Attorneys' Final Argument
A battery of nine attorneys faced Kokjer to get in their final salvos—Otto Walter, Vance Leininger and Robert Crosby for Nebraska Public Power System (NPPS), Richard Wilson for Consumers, Ivan Evans and Kenneth Olds for Custer rural, C. A. Sorensen for a group of rurals, John Riddell for York rural, and R. H. Beatty for the city of North Platte.

Among the salient points of the cases which Judge Kokjer must decide is whether Consumers is contractually bound to purchase substantially all of its power from NPPS until 1972. Around this decision would hinge the question of whether Consumers could generate some of its own power as it wants to do.

Another issue that must be decided is whether or not "cost-of-service" contracts between the hydros and the rurals, Consumers and the city of North Platte should be declared null and void. The hydros have asked that the "experimental" contracts be so declared and that the status of 1946 be restored. This would return the electrical customers of the hydros to a fixed-rate basis.

At issue too is the setup of the budget board and the planning board.

In the 1949 contracts which are under dispute, the rurals, Consumers and the city of North Platte (along with the hydros) were each given a representative on the boards so they would have a voice in the operations of NPPS. If the 1949 contracts were to be nullified, it probably would mean the end of these boards.

Rurals have alleged the NPPS, at the time the case was filed in April 1954, had failed to do everything in its power to contract for cheap power from the Bureau of Reclamation. NPPS attorneys say that this is a closed question since NPPS has contracted for all the power it can get from the bureau.

Beside the main questions of the cases, Judge Kokjer also must decide just which of the many rurals and power districts named in the cases should actually be made parties to the cases. This legal

Uranium Ore Seized From Gordon Pair

OMAHA —The Federal government has started an action at Chadron to "seize, condemn and destroy" a quantity of uranium at Bartow Uranium Center, Gordon, Neb. A hearing is set for Aug. 29.

The center is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bartow. The government charges they advertised the uranium ore was valuable in treating arthritis, sinus infections and hemorrhoids. Analysis of the ore showed it did not contain enough uranium to "have any effect on any part of the body," assistant U.S. District Attorney W. H. Schackelford said.

Seized by the government were 275 unlabeled pads with the ore and 1,000 pounds of loose uranium ore. The government entered the picture, Schackelford said because Bartow transported the ore across state lines from Arizona.

Mrs. Rasmusson's Services Friday; Wife Of Minister

MILFORD, Neb.—Funeral services for Mrs. Ruth Elizabeth Rasmusson, 66, wife of the Rev. S. G. Rasmusson, Methodist minister at Milford, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Methodist Church in Milford. The body will lie in state at Methodist Church from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

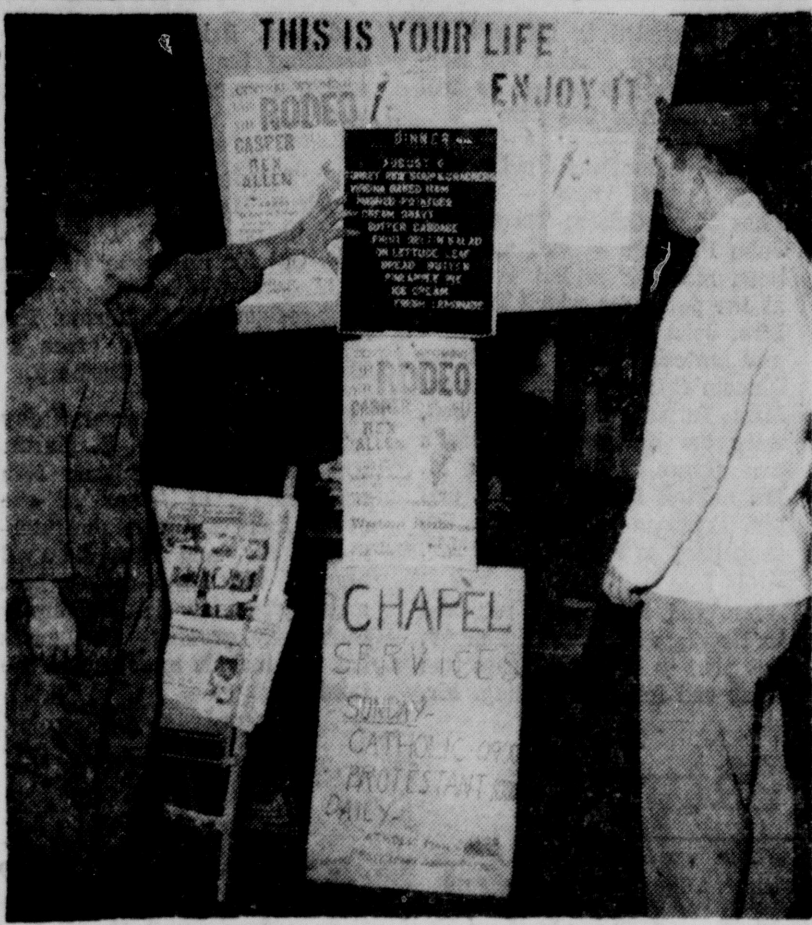

Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park cemetery. Mrs. Rasmusson died in a Lincoln hospital.

The Rasmussons are former residents of DeWitt and Edgar, where the Rev. Mr. Rasmusson served pastorates.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Robert of Lincoln and John, U. S. Navy; three daughters, Mrs. Helen Bernays of Columbus, O., Mrs. Grace Barnett of Cleveland, O., and Betty Mae Rasmusson of Lincoln; five grandchildren; one brother, Dan Lindblad of San Pedro, Calif.; and three sisters, Miss Sigred Lindblad and Miss Ester Lindblad, both of Ames, Ia., and Mrs. Anna Rodine of Des Moines.

Christians Should Follow God's Example, EUB Assembly Told

MILFORD, Neb. — More than 75 adults attended the Bible study session Wednesday morning at the Nebraska Evangelical United Brethren adult summer assembly at Riverside Park near here.

The leader of the Bible study is the Rev. W. C. Lasater of Denver, Colo.

He believes, "If we Christians would forget as God forgets when he forgives us it would smooth out so many human difficulties and problems in life."

A panel discussion was held Wednesday afternoon conducted on evangelism under the direction of the Rev. Melvin Koelling of Callaway. Participating were Prof. Francis W. Boelter of Neperville, Ill., the Rev. Mr. Lasater, Harold Williams of Norfolk, the Rev. Wil-got an emergency call from North Platte shortly before 9 p. m.

The Red Cross was told Mrs. Lila Stoddard of North Platte had been bleeding for several hours after an operation. Her doctor said there was just one pint of her type of blood left, and unless she got more within a few hours she probably would die.

The Red Cross called Capt. Ralph Gamble, executive officer of the CAP squadron in Council Bluffs. He checked the Weather Bureau and learned a line of thunderstorms was approaching the Omaha — Council Bluffs area.

Dodged Hail Danger
Gamble and Dr. Donal V. Hirst, commander of the CAP squadron, decided to chance it.

A police cruiser took the blood to the Council Bluffs airport, and the plane took off from the runway with auto lights showing the way.

Capt. Gamble said they dodged under and around thunderheads between here and Grand Island, and veered as far south as Lincoln to avoid the danger of hail, which would have torn the fabric covering of their plane.

The plane refueled at Grand Island and arrived at North Platte at 1:05 a.m. The last pint of A-negative blood on hand at North Platte Memorial Hospital was being drained into Mrs. Stoddard's veins when the new supply arrived.

The doctor said Mrs. Stoddard was "very much improved" Wednesday morning.

Services Held For Ex-Police Chief

NORFOLK, Neb. — Funeral services were held here for Matt Shaffer, 73, former Norfolk police chief who died of self-inflicted shotgun wounds.

A lifetime resident of Norfolk, he had been a city fireman and until about three years ago was city poundmaster.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Lucy Patterson, Mrs. A. B. Leach and Mrs. A. B. McLaughlin, all of Norfolk.

LIFE BEGINS AT DAWN--FOR US

THAT "Life Begins at Forty" business doesn't mean a thing—Life begins when there is something pleasant and exciting to do whether it be forty, fifty or eighty—or whether it be each morning, as is the case with us—Every fresh dawn brings us in contact with all of the pleasant and exciting activities in the community—and we particularly like the idea that there always is more to come.

Take this morning, for example—we have a brand new stock of news to add to some catch-ups that you will find interesting—so you see, it's already a new life for Thursday—and us.

THOUGHT you might like to know that Sam Ellis and Bud Sidles who have been earning and churning around Europe for the past few weeks plan their arrival home for about Aug. 20—We understand that the trip has been sort of an "even Steven" affair as to jobs and sight-seeing.

HEAR that Saturday is take-off time for Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick Jr., and the three small Ludwicks—Billy, Eddie and Christy. The Ludwicks fivesome will vacation with Mrs. Ludwick's family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weatherbee at Lincoln, Me. and plan to be away for about a month.

ALREADY on the vacation list are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carter, their daughter, Carolyn, and Miss Ann Desmond who leave this morning for the Carter summer home at Estes Park. Miss Desmond, we're told, will return home in a week or 10 days, but the Carter family will linger at Estes for three weeks.

WE'RE wondering whether Dr. Dwight Miller's month in New York comes under the heading of vacation—or work—It seems that Dr. Miller, a member of the zoology faculty at the University of Nebraska, is spending August doing genetics research at the Long Island Biological Association Research laboratory.

But we're reasonably sure that for Mrs. Miller and the children, Bruce and Maria, who left last week-end to accompany Dr. Miller to Long Island,

August will be a strictly vacation month.

VACATION has ended for the Craig O'Briens—Mr. and Mrs.—and their two daughters, Dorrance and Molly—The family returned home earlier this week from Madeline Island where Mrs. O'Brien and her daughters spent the month of July. Mr. O'Brien went to the island last week-end to accompany his family home.

HAD you heard that the Edwin Fishers are moving to Omaha? They are—in fact Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and their sons, Tom and John, will be leaving on Monday for Omaha where their address will be 1626 So. 106th St. Understand that Tom Fisher will have just about a month to become settled in his new environs before leaving for Harvard University where he will be a freshman this year.

THERE'S a wedding Friday evening, as you know—that of Miss Mary Colleen Turner and John Peterson—and we have been meaning to tell you that at the party for which Dr. and Mrs. John Peterson were host and hostess last Sunday at the Lincoln Country Club, honoring Miss Turner and their son, were the bridegroom—elect's two sisters, Mrs. Richard M. Brigham of Davenport, Ia., and Mr. Brigham—and Mrs. Joseph King of Hastings, and Mr. King.

Mr. and Mrs. King returned to Hastings following the party, but plan to be down again this week end for the wedding. Mr.

and Mrs. Brigham have been spending the week in Lincoln and will remain until after the wedding.

NEXT Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Magee and their family will be leaving Lincoln—and, but for an occasional visit to Lincoln—will become permanent residents of California. The Magees have a new home at Hope Ranch, Santa Barbara.

THIS is "happy anniversary" day for Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Martin who are celebrating their 56th anniversary. In honor of the event their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Martin, will be a dinner host and hostess at the University Club this evening. The guest list will include members of the family.

From Sioux Falls, S. D. on Monday came Mrs. Corinne Cooper and her two attractive daughters, Miss Audrey Cooper (seated), and Miss Joan Cooper, who are spending the week in Lincoln.

The feminine threesome will return to Sioux Falls this week-end after their visit at the home of Mrs. Cooper's cousin, Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, and Dr. Ludwick.

WCTU Re-Elects Officers At Luncheon-Meeting

All officers of the Lancaster County WCTU were re-elected Tuesday afternoon at the group's luncheon-meeting held at the YWCA. Continuing in office will be Mrs. C. B. Short, president; Mrs. H. J. Kierstead, vice president; Mrs. Luella Kyckelhahn, recording secretary; Mrs. Earl W. Borer, corresponding secretary; and Miss Emily Johnson, treasurer.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was George Speidell, and a memorial service for members who died during the last year was given by Mrs. Borer. A talk on the American flag was presented by Mrs. T. F. Miller.

TALK of the TOWN

THE LINCOLN STAR THURSDAY, AUGUST 11,

Wednesday Wedding

MRS. GEORGE I. SHARP

Pedestal arrangements of white gladioli and pink Majestic daisies appointed the chancel, and lighted candles marked the processional aisle of the Grace Methodist Church in Omaha where the marriage of Miss Shirley Ann Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron E. Bernard of Omaha, to George Irvin Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice G. Sharp of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln, was solemnized on Wednesday evening, Aug. 10. The 8 o'clock service was read by the Rev. Edward Brantz, minister of the Ralston Community Church, and the wedding music was played by Donald E. Olson, organist. Mr. Olson also accompanied Miss Janet Miller, the vocal soloist.

Identically styled organdy frocks, deep pink for Miss Barbara Jean Bernard, who was her sister's maid of honor; and pale pink for the bridesmaids, Miss Audrey Faxon of Beatrice, and Miss Donna Hughes of Omaha, were fashioned with off-shoulder fitted bodices and exceedingly wide floor-length skirts. Their colonial bouquets were fashioned of pink and white pompons, and pink gladioli. Miss Charlotte Wagner of Culbertson, and Miss Jeanne Krause lighted the candles.

Neil Stein of Lincoln served Mrs. Sharp as best man, and the ushers were Roger Sharp, Richard Hayes, both of Lincoln; and Samuel B. Narvin.

Imported embroidered organdy was chosen by the bride for her wedding gown. The brief-sleeved bodice, designed with a deep yoke to create an off-shoulder effect, was snugly molded above an extremely bouffant skirt in which a back panel of ruffled organdy extended into a cathedral train. Her veil of imported French illusion was ballerina length, and was held to the head by a capulet of organdy and tulle dotted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli and pompons.

For the honeymoon trip to California, where Mr. Sharp is stationed at Twentynine Palms, Mrs. Sharp wore a navy and white silk shantung suit-frock, with navy accessories.

The bride is a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Mr. Sharp also attended Nebraska Wesleyan before entering the Marine Corps.

AAUW PLANS TEA The Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women has tentatively set Sunday, Sept. 18, as the fall opening day for its varied and interesting activities. On that day, the association will entertain at its annual membership tea.

In place of the regular meeting in November, the branch will hold a dinner and program on Wednesday, Nov. 9, which will be followed in December by the group's annual Red Candle Tea honoring new members of AAUW. The tea traditionally is held at Ellen Smith Hall on the University of Nebraska campus.

Mrs. C. E. Rosenquist is president of the Lincoln branch, and Mrs. Harold F. Mattoon, first vice president, is also program chairman for the year. Mrs. George Ernst serves as chairman of the branch's creative arts and interest groups which meet once each month during the club year. The groups include the music appreciation group, of which Mrs. Donna B. Warner is chairman; the creative writing group, with Mrs. Charles Dalrymple as chairman; the play-reading group, of which Mrs. Gladeth Pfeiffer is chairman; the current literature group; and the travel group.

DAR SPEAKER

The opening meeting of the autumn season for the members of Deborah Avery, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held Friday afternoon, Oct. 7, when Mrs. Joel E. McLafferty, vice regent, will speak on her recent round-the-world tour. Mrs. McLafferty, whose extended trip lasted nearly a year, will illustrate her talk with colored slides.

In November, the chapter will meet for luncheon at the Hotel Cornhusker on Friday, Nov. 4, at which time special guests will be

Morning Ceremony

MISS GEORGIA MAE GIFFORD, who will become the bride of Walter R. Fetterley Thursday morning, Aug. 11.

The marriage of Miss Georgia Mae Gifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gifford of Kearney, to Walter Russell Fetterley, son of Mrs. Herbert Applebee of Lincoln, will be solemnized at 9 o'clock, Thursday morning, Aug. 11. In the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends, Capt. Walter Kennedy of the Salvation Army will read the lines of the ceremony in the Wayside Chapel of Nebraska Wesleyan University, and Lt. Christian Jaundes, organist, will play the wedding music and accompany the vocalist, Miss Geraldine Raymond.

Miss Raymond also will attend the bride as maid of honor and will wear a frock of French blue nylon sheer over matching taffeta. She will carry a nosegay of white and blue daisies. Michael Dean Gifford, brother of the bride, will be ringbearer, and lighting the candles will be Robert Eugene Gifford, also a brother of the bride.

Louis Schweppe of Tecumseh will serve as best man, and seating the guests will be the bride's brother, Edgar Gifford.

Miss Gifford has chosen white nylon sheer over ice blue taffeta for her wedding gown. A soft V neckline accents the snug bodice, and the full skirt is trimmed with clusters of embroidered daisies. The daisies motif is repeated on her small white hat, and she will carry a white Bible marked with a lavender orchid.

Both are students at Nebraska Wesleyan University where Miss Gifford is a member of the orchestra and the Girls Glee Club. Mr. Fetterley, who served two years with the Navy, is a member of Men's Chorus of Wesleyan.

'Brownout' Or $1 Million Investment Seems To Be City Power Dilemma

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Mayor Clark Jeary has ordered a study to determine if the city, to meet its power shortage, should be content with partial "brownouts" next summer or invest nearly $1 million in expanding its own power generating facilities.

The study will be made by the city's power advisory committee headed by R. E. Campbell. The initial work will get under way at a meeting Tuesday.

According to Jeary, the city light operation has a total capacity of 20,000 kilowatts per day. This summer, demand at its peak was nearly 17,000 kilowatts.

22,000 Peak Estimated

It is estimated that in the summer of 1956, the demand may go to 22,000 kilowatts.

To meet this situation, Jeary offers two possibilities which the power committee will choose between.

1. The city install a 7,500 kilo-

The second alternative, Jeary said, could very logically be followed in event Consumers Public

IKE CANCELS FLIGHT; WILL TAKE AUTO

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—With hurricane Connie lurking menacingly off the coast, President Eisenhower Tuesday abandoned plans to fly back to Washington Thursday. He decided to make the trip by automobile instead.

The President had intended to return in the new twin-engine plane which he used for the first time last week in coming to his country home at Gettysburg. But the possibility of even the hurricane's fringe touching this area caused a shift in plans.

The change was made shortly before Eisenhower shot an 80 for 18 holes of golf Wednesday—the best score he ever has had at the par-70 Gettysburg Country Club.

Eisenhower plans to leave by car at 7 a.m. to keep a series of White House appointments starting 2½ hours later. The engagements probably will be his last in the capitol before going to Denver Sunday for an extended vacation.

Power District and the Nebraska Public Power System settled their differences on who will build additional generating facilities.

Might Get More

Should this difference be settled, he said, Lincoln could look for an additional power supply by late 1957 or early in 1958. With that increase in sight, he said, the power committee may not feel it is advisable to invest $1 million now in equipment that would not be needed in two years.

Jeary also mentioned the possibility of construction of an entirely new separate city power plant. This step could be taken, he said, to be near the main source of energy for producing power which is water.

A meeting of Consumers and NPPS officials has been called by Gov. Victor E. Anderson for Aug. 25 in an effort to settle the dispute between those two groups.

"I believe the governor will be much more demanding this time than he has been in the past," said Jeary.

Jeary added that "we have delayed any expansion at A Street in an effort to co-operate with NPPS but with them fighting in the courts with Consumers, we cannot sit idly by."

American Way Lauded By Hoover

... On 81st Birthday

NEWBERG, Ore. (AP)—Herbert Hoover said Wednesday on his 81st birthday, "We should lift our eyes unto the hills from whence cometh our help. We should occasionally mention something good about ourselves."

The former President, in an address at the dedication of his boyhood home here as a national shrine, said, "During the last score of years our American way of life has been deluged with criticism."

"Altogether, if we look at the criticisms alone, we seem to be in a very, very bad way."

But, he continued, "we could point out that our American way of life has perfected the greatest productivity of any nation on earth; that our standard of living is the highest in the world..."

No Secret Police

"In the government field we could suggest that our supposedly decadent people still rely upon the ballot and the legislative hall to settle their differences without a secret police with slave camps."

"And we could suggest that we alone, of all nations, fought in two

Tired Guardsmen Head Back To Camp After 2-Day Battle

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP)—Beary eyed Iowa and Nebraska National Guardsmen of the 34th Infantry Division trudged back to camp Wednesday after a two-day battle 14 miles north of here.

Nearly 6,000 men had spent a near sleepless 30 hours in maneuvers plagued by rain, fog, cold and aggressor raiders.

The camp area was all but deserted except for housekeeping and headquarters personnel as even the division brass ran the battle from the field in a blacked out command post exercise. The battle plan included a move by the entire command during the night.

Hoover recalled that he was brought here some 70 years ago to live with his uncle, Dr. Henry J. Minthorn, a physician and Quaker educator, and his wife.

The Herbert Hoover Foundation restored the Minthorn home to its condition of 1884 when Hoover went to live there after the death of his parents.

Helpless Nun Rides Runaway Death Car In Chicago Traffic

NEVER DRIVEN AN AUTO

CHICAGO (U-P) — A nun who doesn't know how to drive a car accidentally stepped on the accelerator of a standing automobile today, then sat helplessly and horrified as it spun crazily across a busy downtown street.

A man was injured fatally when the car piled into another auto, then into pedestrians on a sidewalk. Three women were hospitalized with injuries.

The freak accident occurred between LaSalle and Wells streets and was witnessed by scores of passersby and Loop office workers. The two cars halted on the sidewalk in front of Thompson's restaurant at 180 W. Randolph St.

Went To See Movie
Mrs. Mary Miller, 33, of Joliet, had driven five nuns of St. Joseph's parish in Joliet to Chicago to see a motion picture.

They stopped in front of the Palace theater on the south side of Randolph street, a one-way west-bound thoroughfare. So that the nuns would not have to step from the car into traffic, Mrs. Miller got out and let Sister Verona, an arthritis victim, slide behind the wheel and leave by the left door.

Mrs. Miller told police she left the motor running, the automatic transmission in drive but with the hand break set. As the nun slid across the front seat, her foot caught the accelerator and the car shot away from the curb.

Sister Verona said she does not know how to drive and was helpless as the car cut to the opposite side of the street.

The car plunged forward and sideswiped a taxicab near the entrance to the Bismarck hotel. The impact changed its course and sent it toward the restaurant entrance. It hit the rear of a parked car on the north side of the street and threw that car to the sidewalk.

Anthony Scornavack, 59, whose legs were mangled, died in a hospital a few hours later.

Lincolnite, Sons Injured In Auto Wreck Near Grant

Lincoln Star Special
GRANT, Neb. — Mrs. R. J. Donaldson of 5501 Saylor in Lincoln was in Perkins County Hospital here with injuries suffered in an auto accident.

She had a crushed pelvic bone, two broken ribs and a head laceration.

Her son, Richard Hart, 15, also was hospitalized with two broken ribs.

Two younger sons, Billy Hart, 12, and Bobby Hart, 10, also were in the auto. Billy was released from the hospital after his lacerated hand was treated.

The 10-year-old Bobby, who was not injured, walked three-quarters of a mile to get aid after the auto hit loose gravel and overturned on Highway 23 about 25 miles east of Grant.

Mrs. Donaldson was pinned under the auto. The three boys were thrown from the car.

They had left Lincoln Sunday for a two-week trip to visit relatives in Grant and other western Nebraska towns.

Mr. Donaldson, who did not accompany them on the trip, went to Grant after the accident.

Women's Scholastic Average Of 81 Tops Men At University Of Nebraska

Women students at the University of Nebraska had a slight scholastic edge over the men for the second semester of the 1954-55 school year, reported the NU Office of Registration and Records Thursday.

The women's average was 6.152, equivalent to slightly under 81. The men's average was 5.468, or about 77.

The overall average for the University was 5.664, or about 78. The sorority average was 6.108, slightly over 80, and the fraternity average was 5.409, or about 77.

The University's grading system is:

IKE OKAYS BILL TO BAN 'T-MAN' AEC

... Reluctant Signature

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Legislation designed to end what some Democrats called "one-man rule" of the Atomic Energy Commission was signed reluctantly Wednesday by President Eisenhower, who called it "unnecessary."

He held that existing law already bars any one-man rule, but said he was signing because of another provision of the bill, which he considered necessary.

What he objected to as superfluous was a requirement that all members of the AEC be given "equal access to information necessary in the performance of their duties."

The requirement was a blow aimed at AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss by Democratic critics who accused Strauss of trying to take too much power to himself and keeping at least one member of the commission in the dark on important developments.

Eisenhower, in a statement, said he was signing the bill to take advantage of a section permitting him to fill a commission vacancy, while Congress is in adjournment, with an interim appointee who would draw a salary.

Without this permission, the appointee could not be paid. This is because the vacancy existed more than 30 days before Congress adjourned and supposedly there should have been a nomination in time for the Senate to pass on it.

Phillip Sutliff, 9, Services Friday

Services for Phillip D. Sutliff, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sutliff, 6134 Platte, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Roper & Sons Havelock Chapel, the Rev. Ord Morrow officiating.

The boy, who had lived in Lincoln the past two years, died Wednesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Born in Minneapolis, Minn., he came to Lincoln from Davey, Neb.

Surviving are his parents; sisters, Marie and Jean, and brothers, Gerald, Roger and John, all at home, and his grandparents, the Rev. and Mrs. Leon Eastman of Waubay, S. D.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

India Issues Denial

LONDON (INS) — The Indian high commissioner said reports that India is planning to move troops against the Portuguese colony of Goa are "absolutely without foundation." The commissioner said "there are no Indian troops" on the border of the tiny colony and "there will not be any troops there."

Larsen's 13-Inning Effort Beats Bosox 3-2

Yankees Gain Edge On Single By Carey

NEW YORK (U) — Big Don Larsen pitched the New York Yankees to a 13-inning victory over Boston's Frank Sullivan Wednesday, winning 3-2 on Andy Carey's single over Ted Williams' head with two out.

The tense struggle between two of the leading contenders for the American League pennant found Larsen retiring 12 consecutive batters from the time Jim Piersall singled to start the seventh until he walked Sullivan to open the 13th.

Billy Klaus, Boston's fine shortstop, fumbled Yogi Berra's roller, to give the Yanks their opening in the 13th. After Joe Collins sacrificed, moving Berra to second, Manager Pinky Higgins ordered Sullivan to walk Irv Noren, with two right-handed batters coming up.

Hank Bauer broke his bat on a weak pop fly to Sullivan for the second out but Carey crossed up the strategy. With a count of one ball and no strikes, the Yankee third baseman drove a long liner over Williams' head for a game-winning single as Berra rode home free with an unearned run. Williams and the other Boston outfielders were playing in close for a possible play at the plate.

Wise, Rezek Win Titles

Ronnie Wise and Raena Rezek Wednesday won championships in the 12-year-and-over class of the Elks Beginners tennis tournament at the Lincoln Tennis Club.

Linda Finley won the singles title for girls 9-11 while Bill Ferguson captured the boys crown. Wise defeated Dave Ryan in the finals, 6-4, 6-2. Miss Rezek triumphed over Susan Stump, 7-5, 6-1. Miss Finley defeated Evelyn Olson, 7-5, 5-7, 8-6 in the best match of the day.

Ferguson beat Charles Lowe, 6-0, 6-2. In Boys doubles (12 and over), Wise and Tom Panagiotis won the title over Kent Amerman and Tim Panagiotis—Tom's twin—6-4, 6-3. Jackie Thompson-Nancy Deer beat Vicki Seymour-Carol Crawford for the girls (12 and over) doubles title, 6-4, 6-1. Linda Finley-Carolyn Knight won the girls doubles (9-11) crown over Evelyn Olson-Joan Hempel, 6-3, 6-4.

Cheyenne First Tournament Foe For Lincoln Optimists

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (U) — Lincoln Optimists will tackle Cheyenne at 6 p.m., while Denver plays Carlsbad at 8:30 Monday in the opening round of the four-state Junior League regional baseball tournament at Scottsbluff.

The Nebraska and Colorado champions are favored to fight it out for the title, won last year by Omaha Storz.

Kansas City Life of Denver carries a 16-1 record into the tournament and boasts a stellar pitching staff, headed by Paul Erickson, who is undefeated in seven starts.

Lincoln Optimists have the top over-all season record with 28 victories against one defeat. The Nebraskaans also have solid pitching with Duane Steffen, Rudy Stoehr, Dick Welch and Yogi Hergenrader. Cheyenne's hopes rest on the arm of Terry Happle, who has been the mainstay in a 15-7 season.

HCC Gals Win Jaycee Swim Meet; Boys Recheck Slated

Hillcrest Country Club girls took team honors in the second annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Novice Swim Meet at Muni Wednesday night, but the boys race is still in question.

Unofficial results showed Hillcrest in front of Lincoln Country Club, 46½ to 46. A recheck will be made Thursday to determine the official winner.

HCC girls trounced their LCC counterparts, 86½ to 34½. Teams from Muni, University Place and Capitol Beach also competed but were far behind the leaders.

The meet was divided into the prep division (12 to 14) and the midget division (11 and under), with events for boys and girls in each division.

MUNY, NORTHEAST Tie In City Series
Ronnie Martin pitched sparkling three-hit ball and hit a double and a single to pace Muni to a 7-1 victory over Northeast in the City League Baseball 'A' playoffs Wednesday night. The win tied Muni with Northeast in the championship series.

The two teams play for the title at 2 p.m. today at Antelope Park. Martin's two hits and a pair of singles by Phil Kelly led the Muni attack.

Archery Deer Permits Still Available

Nebraska archers were reminded Wednesday that they still may apply for bow and arrow deer permits for the special season opening Oct. 1 in Burt, Douglas, Thurston and Washington counties.

It will be the first archery deer season allowed in Nebraska. Archers will be allowed one deer, either sex. The special archery season ends Oct. 31.

Game Commission officials explained bow and arrows were chosen as the means of harvest in the four Missouri river counties for two reasons:

Safety was the first consideration, because of the proximity to centers of population.

Blue Choir Cops 'Cap

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Harry L. Nicholson's 4-year-old Irish-bred colt, Blue Choir, won the $28,550 Grassland Handicap at Washington Park Wednesday.

Ridden by Steve Brooks, Blue Choir beat Mister Black to the wire by a neck. Another length and a half back was Mark Ye Well. Blue Choir, clocked in 1:50 1-5 for the mile and a furlong on the grass, paid $8.60, $5.00 and $2.80. Mister Black returned $4.20 and $2.80 and Mark Ye Well $2.60.

MICKEY MANTLE

Whitney Martin:

Mantle Takes Place As Target Of Boos

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Snead in his professional hillbilly role has a stock yarn about the young blades back home who used to relieve the monotony by going down to the barbershop and "watching a few haircuts."

Which is neither here nor there except for the fact that a lot of baseball fans hereabouts seem to get together on dull evenings and say in effect: "Let's go out to the stadium and boo Mickey Mantle."

There's no real reason for it. The Oklahoma kid just gets out there and plays to the best of his ability, which is better than fair, and we never have seen him do anything that would arouse the antagonism of anyone.

Yet he gets it from all sides. He gets it when his name is announced in the starting lineup. He gets it when he comes up to the plate. He gets it when he pops out, or strikes out, or hits a home run, or catches a fly ball.

It's unfair, but at the same time it is a tribute to the stocky man who can do everything so well and with such apparently little effort. He wouldn't get a tumble if he was just another Joe Doakes.

He should get some consolation from the fact that only the good ones get this back-handed tribute. Joe DiMaggio used to get it oftener than seldom, and there is no question as to his place among the Yankee greats.

Williams Gets It

Ted Williams gets it, although being a visitor to the stadium, the ovations drown out the razzing of the career boos, who seem to take a moronic delight in belittling those who have achieved a measure of distinction.

We have in mind a particular game a few days ago which might be called a typical game as far as the reaction of the fans to Mantle was concerned.

He was booed when he came to the plate in the first inning and hit a home run. He was booed when he hit another in the 10th inning to beat Detroit, 3-2.

Maybe the fact a lot of anti-Yankee fans go to the stadium has something to do with it, as they see in him a threat to the opposing team. The stadium, like the Empire State building or Rockefeller Center, is a "must" for out-of-towners taking in the sights, and with only an academic interest in the Yankee ball club, they pull for the underdog, which always is the visiting team.

Anyway, here is Mantle, hitting more than 300, leading the league in home runs, a fine fielder with an exceptional arm, and a blur on the bases, being treated as if he had just been caught robbing a poor box.

Maybe the Yankees themselves are partially responsible for the situation. Before the kid ever saw a big league park he was publicized as the greatest discovery since the electric light; a sort of combination Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and several others.

Nobody could live up to his billing, and when he got off to an unimpressive start, then was "stymied by injuries and ailments, the fans felt let down, and they haven't recovered from it. They still are expecting too much, if secretly admiring his tremendous home runs and his speed and the intangible "color" of DiMaggio.

Nuclear Fuel Resources Abundant

GENEVA (AP) — A leading United States authority told the 72-nation atoms-for-peace conference Wednesday "the nuclear power era will have a abundant power resources."

Jesse C. Johnson, director of the division of raw materials for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, said the world's resources in nuclear fuels exceeded those of all other types.

Adequate Resources

"There are adequate resources of uranium and thorium for a long-range expanding world power program," he said.

On the basis of present geological evidence, Johnson added, producing nations of the West alone are estimated to have between one and two million tons of uranium that can be produced at a moderate cost. There are several million tons more available at a higher production cost, he said.

Uranium Not Rare

"Uranium can no longer be considered a rare metal," Johnson said. "There are extensive deposits throughout the world and there are processes for extracting the uranium economically."

"Uranium production already developed is sufficient for a major nuclear power program of world-wide extent. Additional production can be obtained when needed."

A British scientist predicted that by the year 2000 it may be possible to tap the equivalent of a million tons of coal from a single ton of uranium.

The scientist, Sir John Cockcroft, said this may be achieved through full development of "breeding" of atomic fuel.

A "breeder" reactor is one in which at least as much fissionable material is created as is consumed in keeping the reactor going. Britain now is experimenting with such a reactor, known as the Zephyr.

A belief that the fusion type of energy used in the hydrogen bomb will be harnessed for peaceful uses within a generation was expressed by another British scientist, Sir George Thomson.

Thomson agreed with Dr. Homi J. Bhabha of India that engineers will be able to bring this unlimited new source of energy under control for other purposes beside destruction.

Bhabha, president of the conference, predicted Monday that a method would be found within 20 years to liberate "fusion energy in a controlled manner."

Doing Research

Cockcroft said Britain is doing research on the subject, but he did not say whether he believed any results would be achieved or when. The United States has not problem.

Russia announced July 1 that it was doing research on the question of harnessing H-bomb type energy.

Weeks Keeps BAC Files From House Committee

By J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks Tuesday blocked a House committee from digging into records and files of his Business Advisory Council.

Weeks told Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House Antimonopoly subcommittee that disclosure of files on individual business statistics and forecasts "is made a crime by law."

Also, Walter S. White, executive director of the BAC, told Celler that any action on his part to deliver files in custody of the department would violate the law and "subject me to punishment."

Probe Of WOC Men
Celler wants to study the records

as part of the subcommittee's investigation into the activities of WOC men—businessmen who serve the government without compensation in an advisory capacity while drawing their regular pay from their own firms. WOC is short for without compensation.

Celler says one aim of his investigation is to determine whether members of the Business Advisory Council unduly influence government policy.

The council is made up of about 165 business executives, advising Weeks on economic and other business matters.

Contempt Decision
Celler said he would consult with other members of his committee for a decision on whether to proceed against Weeks and White on grounds they were showing contempt of Congress.

Congressional committee efforts to see executive department files have been going on for many years, but the general reaction has been a refusal on the part of the departments, where anything is involved that the departments regard as confidential.

Weeks contends the BAC is an official government agency and its confidential files do not have to be shown to congressional investigators, under the doctrine of separation of powers which makes the executive branch of the government equal to the legislative branch.

Celler takes the position that the BAC is a private club of executives which has no official status and which collects dues from its members and is run by a paid director. White said today he is not a government employee and is paid $25,000 a year to direct the activities of the council.

A Dogs Life
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Harris County Commissioners were told it costs 35 cents a day to feed prisoners in the city jail, but costs 60 cents a day to keep a pooch in the dog shelter.

New England Polio Outbreak Spreads; Count 1,323 Cases

BOSTON (AP) — New England's polio outbreak continued to spread Wednesday as the six-state total mounted to 1,323 cases. Only 249 were listed in the area on this date a year ago.

Massachusetts, where 112 new cases were reported Wednesday as against 88 Tuesday, accounts for 1,038 of the New England cases, and hard-hit Boston has had 370, almost one-third of the state's 1955 total.

No Salk In Fatalities
Thirty-one Salk vaccine-inoculated youngsters have been stricken in New England this year. However, no Salk involvement has been reported among New England's 44 polio fatalities.

The latest death was that of a 10-year-old New York City boy who was stricken at a Lenox camp in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts.

Summer Camp Hit
Five cases were reported among 114 boys at a Middleboro, Mass., summer camp. Some New England camps have barred visitors.

Massachusetts state health officials said Wednesday the disease is "radiating outward" from Boston.

Dr. Roy F. Feemster, director of the Massachusetts Health Department division of communicable diseases, said polio is "taking hold" in communities adjacent to Boston, and has spread more than 50 miles to the northwest.

Will Fall Off
Dr. Feemster said that when the peak is reached around Boston the state total will fall off very rapidly.

Suburban Quincy reported 13 cases, only six fewer than Boston. Braintree, another suburb, listed six new cases.

The New England totals to date with corresponding 1954 figures: Massachusetts, 1038-39; New Hampshire, 56-14; Maine, 28-13; Vermont, 19-6; Rhode Island, 47-13; Connecticut, 135-105.

Second-Round Shots
Only Vermont and Rhode Island reported no new cases Wednesday.

Second-round Salk vaccine shots are under way in several New England communities, although health agencies in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont have advised that further inoculations be deferred until fall.

With Hurricane Connie lurking over the Atlantic and a threat to power lines in New England, hospital authorities took steps to provide auxiliary power for lights and iron lungs if the normal power supply is knocked out.

Added LAFB Land Decision Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Real Estate Subcommittee has put off a decision on a land acquisition proposal for the Lincoln, Neb. Air Force Base pending "further justification" by the Air Force.

The Air Force wants additional land adjoining the base for housing space. A subcommittee spokesman said, in response to an inquiry, that some members of the committee felt the space per house in the Air Force's proposal — approximately a third of an acre — was a bit high and that perhaps less ground would serve the purpose.

Both Senate and House Armed Services Subcommittees must approve such land acquisitions by the military services. The House group has approved the Lincoln project.

According to Mayor Clark Jeary the delay by the Senate committee would have little effect on Lincoln as a whole. The Air Force justification, he said, has been entirely on the need for housing on the base for emergency action, not because of any lack of housing in Lincoln.

State Department To Make Claim In Harris Killing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aids of Sen. Curtis (R-Neb.) said the State Department will demand an indemnity of about $25,000 from Jordan for the killing of Charles B. Harris, a native of Lebanon, Neb., was fatally shot by Lebanese soldiers April 15. He was sightseeing in a no man's land area between Israel and Arabia.

The Department told Curtis' aids the indemnity demand will be made soon and it probably will be two weeks before Jordan replies.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Dr. Vance Rogers Impressed After 3-Hour Meeting With Marshal Tito

By ELLIS RALL
Star Staff Writer

An almost three-hour face to face meeting with Communist Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito left Dr. Vance Rogers, of 1744 So. 24th, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, with some definite impressions.

Dr. Rogers was one of a group of 30 touring Europe under the sponsorship of the Sherwood Eddy Seminar, a group dedicated to fostering a better understanding between countries of the world.

Meeting with the Marshal at his summer villa on the island of Brioni on July 25, Dr. Rogers said the group was allowed to freely ask questions — which, in turn were answered frankly by Tito.

Tito was dressed in a well-cut light blue suit and wore a monogrammed white shirt. Dr. Rogers, who sat directly across from him, said "he was a very interesting man to see" with deep "penetrating eyes." You "can see what a forceful leader he is," Dr. Rogers said.

Dr. Rogers said he left the meeting with a feeling that Tito felt his break with the Russians was the right decision. He said Tito had remarked he would like to remain between the East and West, using the good he could from both areas.

Directing a question to Tito, Dr. Rogers said he asked, "Tell me what is the relation of the Yugoslavian Communist party to the Communist Party of Russia and to Communism all over the world?"

Tito's answer, the minister said, was that there is no question of domination of Russia over Yugoslavia, "nor will we be subjected in any way."

When another member of the group directed a question on the lack of religious freedom, Tito emphatically replied, "Any country that wants to be strong cannot allow intervention of the church," Dr. Rogers said.

ference, Dr. Rogers quoted the head of the police state as saying President Eisenhower's military inspection proposal was "an idealistic type of proposal made by a man who's ideal was peace."

The keynote at the conference, Tito told the group, was co-existence and the moral factor entered the talks greatly.

Dr. Rogers asked Tito for a picture. An autographed copy was sent to his hotel immediately after the meeting, he said.

Other impressive moments on the tour, he said, included being in Paris the day the Assembly voted to free Tunisia and attending the German Bundestag (lower house) at Bonn when German rearmament was voted. There were many "mixed reactions" noted, he said. They also toured East and West Berlin, heard speeches by leading British politicians, including Clement Attlee, and toured Venice and Switzerland.

He left the tour June 20th and returned to Lincoln Tuesday night.

Reiner Talks Of Non-Church Going American Youth

"There are still between 27 and 30 million young people of school age in North America who are not attending any church or religious services, and who are growing up in spiritual ignorance and illiteracy," declared D. E. Reiner, 4603 Calvert, Wednesday afternoon.

Reiner, the Seventh-day Adventist welfare director for a five-state area, addressed the annual state convention of the denomination.

"The hour has come for the church to put on shoes, and carry the message out of the church buildings to where the people live," he continued. "It cannot be expected that the non-Christian world will go to the church and ask for religion. The church must follow the sinner home, and make Christ known to him personally."

To help achieve this goal the denomination is holding three large regional laymen congresses this year to train church members in this work.

Dulles Cautions So. Korea To Avoid Violence, Show Patience

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles told embattled South Korea Wednesday the way to national unification lies in patience—not violence inviting nuclear war which might leave only insects to inherit the country.

Dulles' comments, based on rioting in South Korea against the half-Communist truce inspection team, came during a half-hour news conference devoted almost entirely to Far East questions.

Newsman took notes as Dulles—who only a few months ago talked of "massive retaliation" and of "weapons of precision"—sought to throw oil on a variety of troubled waters.

To the Republic of Korea he counseled patience and non-violence. As an example, he held up United States restraint for the past year in eventually successful efforts to free 15 American airmen from Red China prisons.

To France, Dulles seemed to be suggesting a way out of bitter nationalist uprisings in North Africa when he applauded an agreement negotiated between France and Tunisia. As if recommending it as a solution to violence in Morocco, he said the French-Tunisian accord showed "determination, realism and good will."

Of South Viet Nam's reluctance to meet with Communists from the North to arrange elections unifying that Indochina country, Dulles said he was sure Premier Ngo Dinh Diem is agreeable to free elections. He indicated a way would be found to comply with the Indochina truce provision for unifying elections, although he defended Diem's right to object since his government did not sign the truce.

90 TRAFFIC VIOLATORS ARE JAILED

DALLAS (AP) — Ninety delinquent traffic violators were jailed Wednesday. Others, anxious to stay out of jail, dug into piggy banks or waited in long lines to pay old traffic tickets.

It was the payoff of a crackdown aimed at clearing up a backlog of 4,000 delinquent fines. The drive began Monday and already 1,650 delinquent fines have been collected.

Ten warrant officers prowled the city during the night. One man arrested, a 31-year-old contractor, owes $963 in delinquent traffic fines. He posted bond—and gave up his driver's license.

About 1 a.m. two officers knocked on one door and a man answered.

Piggy Bank Jimmied
"I knew you was coming," said the sleepy citizen. He jimmied open a child's piggy bank and shelled out $35 he owed on old traffic tickets.

A local businessman called from California to ask for two more days in which to get back to Dallas and pay up. A Dallas woman visiting in St. Louis telephoned Sgt. C. O. Cauley, in charge of serving warrants, and arranged to send a check.

The lines of people waiting to pay up, said Sgt. Cauley, "resembled those of a movie premiere."

Nebraska Atomic Plant Bid Still In Running—AEC

OMAHA (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has notified Sen. Hruska (R-Neb.) that it still is much interested in the bid by Consumers Public Power District to build an atomic energy plant in Nebraska.

Hruska said that Lewis L. Strauss, AEC chairman, informed the senator's office in Washington that the shutdown of Consumers at this time was not on the basis of the district's general eligibility.

It was rather that Consumers was not within the very rigid technical specifications set up by law, he said.

Miller Asks Flood Control Breakfast

SCOTT'S BLUFF (AP) — Rep. A. L. Miller of Kimball Wednesday asked the Scott's Bluff Chamber of Commerce to promote a breakfast meeting here Oct. 29 in the interest of Gering Valley flood control.

The congressman heads a sub-committee which will meet here at a breakfast session the morning of Oct. 29.

After the Scott's Bluff visit, the sub-committee goes to inspect the Glendo Dam site.

Can't Match Fury Of A Hurricane

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (INS) — When it comes to producing incredible power and awesome fury, the hurricane is in a class by itself.

Someone has figured a first-class hurricane's energy comes to a staggering 500 trillion horsepower. That's equal to a heap of atomic bombs exploding each second.

If that sounds unbelievable, remember that a hurricane can cover an area as large as one of our bigger states. In its center, its winds can surpass 150 miles an hour. And some water-drenched spirit at the National Geographic Society has decided that within one howling, windswept day, a hurricane can sweep up two billion tons of vapor from the sea—and then dump it all back as rain.

The word "hurricane" was one of the earliest imports from the New World. Many hurricanes originate in the West Indies, and the early Portuguese who visited there ran into both the wind and the word.

Some of the natives had a god called Hurakan, in charge of the lightning and thunder department.

But the word generally meant not only the big wind, but also the evil spirit.

The Portuguese took the word home with them, to describe what had happened.

Some of mankind's worst disasters have come from hurricanes. But we now have one advantage over the Caribbean natives: At least we know it is coming, and can be prepared.

Warning Lifesaver

During World War II, the Air Force, Navy and Weather Bureau joined forces to spy on hurricanes and assorted thunderstorms. Flights still are being made into the heart of the storm, and its progress is further checked from the shore by radar.

The Weather Bureau has learned that a little warning often can save property. Ships can detour, buildings can be boarded up, equipment and goods in low areas can be moved away.

More important, it also can save lives. Resort owners often complain, though, that guests leave perfectly safe beaches to fight their way home over dangerous highways.

1,836 Dead
One example of the value of a warning: In 1928, an unexpected storm pushed a 12-foot wall of water over the edge of Lake Okeechobee, in Southern Florida, leaving 1,836 dead. In 1949, a similar storm swept in, but its coming was so well advertised that nearly everyone was able to leave the danger spots, and only two persons were killed.

Still, there's a lot to be learned about hurricanes. One of the last acts of Congress, before its recent adjournment, was an appropriation for a half-million dollars to be used in hurricane research.

One of the most talked about hurricanes was the 1938 storm that hit New England, killing 600. But that doesn't compare with that horrible day in 1900 when the wind roared steadily for 18 hours, rolling huge waves over Galveston, Tex., and leaving behind a destroyed city and 5,000 dead.

Nor was this the worst of all. Back in 1876, a ferocious storm hit India. The death toll: An estimated 100,000.

BANK OF VOLGA YIELDS A RICH OIL DEPOSIT

MOSCOW (INS) — The Communist party organ Pravda Wednesday announced discovery of "rich new oil deposits" on the left bank of the Volga near Kuibyshev.

"A powerful gusher of high quality oil spouted from a well driven nearly 3,000 meters deep," it said.

"With this discovery, the reserves of the middle Volga region has grown considerably."

Cops-Robbers Turns Into A Deadly Game

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (INS) — A game of cops and robbers was blamed Wednesday for the death of James Dade, 9, Dallas, Tex., who was visiting in San Diego.

The boy was shot through the head by a playmate, David Jones, 9, of San Diego.

The two boys were playing in David's San Diego home with toy guns when they decided to get a real gun from a desk in the house.

The victim was visiting in San Diego for the summer with his mother.

U.S.-Hawaii Submarine Cable By '58 Planned

NEW YORK (INS) — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the Hawaiian Telephone Co. announced Wednesday plans for a submarine cable connecting the U. S. and the Hawaiian Islands.

The two companies said service on the trans-Pacific link should be ready by 1958.

Present telephone service between mainland and Hawaii is by means of radio circuits.

The companies said they had decided on a cable link because radio channels are becoming increasingly crowded and "future growth by this medium is necessarily limited."
